Responsible Partisanship? John Clifford Green,Paul S. Herrnson,2002 More than fifty years have passed since the American Political Science Association published Toward a More Responsible Two Party System a controversial report that addressed the lack of national cohesion within the major parties Although parties have changed a great deal since then they remain a critical component of American democracy While the possibilities and limits of responsible party government have been central topics in the literature since 1950 this book is the first to reassess all aspects of the APSA report Here a distinguished group of scholars among them Charles O Jones Barbara Sinclair Frank J Sorauf John Bibby and Gerald Pomper examine the effectiveness accountability and relevance of parties to the democratic process These articles cover all major relevant topics focusing on recent changes in laws that govern parties innovations in party organization party finance and the relationships among political consultants and parties They examine the place of the party in government including chapters on the changing role of parties in Congress and in the presidency and also consider the roles of parties among the electorate examining trends in voting behavior party identification and ideology A capstone essay by Leon Epstein the dean of American party scholars reviews the ongoing quest for responsible partisanship over the past half century These contributors offer a mixed assessment of the two party system showing that parties are in many respects stronger at the national level than they were in 1950 but not necessarily more responsible The most comprehensive description and analysis of American parties now available Responsible Partisanship should become required reading for all students and citizens concerned with making parties more accountable instruments of government

Fernandez,1990-09-07 A collection of original articles by leading practitioners and researchers this volume examines methods for human resource forecasting and planning to meet the strategic needs of the organization As the editors note at the outset changing characteristics of the workforce and new skill demands mean that human resource planning must become an integral part of corporate strategy development and implementation In order to compete successfully in an era of rapid technological change organizations must be able to adequately forecast their needs for different types of employees consider the extent to which current employees have the needed skills and examine labor force availability This book describes ways to collect the necessary environmental data and formulate human resource strategies that recognize current and anticipated changes both in the organization and in the environment in which it operates The volume begins with a discussion of environmental scanning techniques The contributors demonstrate how to identify environmental trends including labor force demographics and how to apply this information to the development of human resource strategies The second section considers ways to analyze the organization s future human resource needs by examining employee demographics and job attitudes In Part Three the contributors describe how organizations formulate human resource strategies in response to environmental trends and organizational goals The next group of chapters offers examples of the human resource implications of organizational change This section includes separate chapters on job loss and employee assistance programs and the effects of a corporate merger as well as two case studies of the relationship between human resource planning and corporate strategic goals The contributors conclude by describing organizational reactions to changing environments brought about by an aging workforce work at home jobs new computer and telecommunications technologies and the increasing cultural diversity of the workforce Indispensable for human resource managers and corporate planning executives this book will also be of significant value to researchers and students in human resource and strategic planning programs
