War Peace:

War, Peace, and the Future Ellen Key,1916      War, Peace and World Orders in European History Anja V. Hartmann,Beatrice Heuser,2002-11 This book explores a new way for students of International Relations to look at war peace and world orders throughout European history The contributors argue that the predominant realist paradigm that focuses on states and their self interest is not applicable to the largest period of European history because states either did not exist or were only in the making Instead they argue we have to look through the eyes of historical entities to see how they understood the world in which they lived The authors use a wide range of case studies focusing on subjects as diverse as the ancient Greek concept of honour and persecution under Communist regimes during the Cold War to explore the ways in which people in different societies at different times perceived and felt about war and peace in the world around them      War, Peace, and Reconciliation Theodore R. Weber,2015-11-11 War Peace and Reconciliation invites Christians and the churches into a conversation over how to think about war from a standpoint in faith It asks how reconciliation which is central to Christian life and doctrine can engage the realities of war without surrendering its fundamental affirmations It defines these realities politically by discussing the meanings of power peace as a particular organization of power and the international system The study of war and politics is unavoidable as is the engagement with reconciliation because all human existence and activity exist in the context of the gracious work of God to renew and reconcile the fallen creation The inquiry is theocentric and christocentric It culminates in a call to the churches to examine all their practices in the light of this perspective      War, Peace and the Military Franz Kernic,2023-03-17 This book is a comprehensive analysis of the various social science approaches to explaining and interpreting war peace and the military Its central aim is to trace and reconstruct those basic assumptions constructed and thought processes undertaken by modern social sciences in their research and conceptualization of military violence and the use of force In addition to such reconstruction the aim is also to enquire into the preconditions of such thought This study therefore eschews the development of an explicit strategy in the sense of a research strategy but instead is much more concerned with thinking about its subject matter by means of re thinking and reflecting upon different theoretical approaches and problems The investigation includes a critical reexamination of the tradition of military sociological research from the beginning of modern sociology to late twentieth century theoretical approaches regarding the security focused and or war driven aspects of modern society      War, Peace, and Human Nature Douglas P. Fry,2013-04-25 A collection of essays from leading academics about the nature of war and the capacity for peace as applied to human nature      The Advocate of Peace ,1903      War and peace graf Leo Tolstoy,1899      Messenger of Peace ,1928      Monthly Bulletin St. Louis Public Library,1924 Teachers bulletin vol 4 issued as part of v 23 no 9      Studies and Documents on the War: no. 1. The violation by Germany of the neutrality of Belgium and Luxemburg ,1915      Peace Handbooks: Poland and Finland ,1920      The Manifesto ,1887      Theologies of War and

Peace Among Jews, Christians, and Muslims Albert B. Randall, 1998 This study provides analyses into the concepts of war and peace as found in the Jewish Christian and Muslim religions It covers topics such as the traditions of the Prophets theologies of war theologies of peace and unholy war

World's War Events Francis Joseph Reynolds, Allen Leon Churchill, 1919

Our War Too Margaret Paton-Walsh, 2002 In the late 1930s a number of American women especially those allied with various peace and isolationist groups protested against the nation's entry into World War II While their story is fairly well known Margaret Paton Walsh reveals a far less familiar story of women who fervently felt that American intervention was absolutely necessary Paton Walsh recounts how the United States became involved in the war but does so through the eyes of American women who faced it as a necessary evil Covering the period between 1935 and 1941 she examines how these women functioned as political actors even though they were excluded from positions of power through activism in women's organizations informal women's networks and even male dominated lobbying groups In the Great Debate over whether America should enter the war some women favored aid to the Allies not because they hoped for war but because they hoped aid would forestall more direct U S involvement but also because they believed war was preferable to a Nazi victory Paton Walsh shows that this activism involved some of the most prominent women of their day Elizabeth Cutter Morrow whose son in law Charles Lindbergh was an isolationist spokesman supported the revision of the Neutrality Acts to allow the sale of arms to the Allies and expressed her support in a national radio broadcast Soon other women joined this debate Esther Brunauer of the AAUW journalist Dorothy Thompson and organizations like the League of Women Voters and National Women's Trade Union League broke from the pacifist tradition to advocate American aid for the Allied cause Focusing on the conflict in Europe Paton Walsh shows how these women grasped the implications of the Lend Lease program for America's entry into the war but supported it nevertheless By late 1941 the Women's Division of the Fight for Freedom Committee had been established no longer merely advocating aid to Britain to keep American boys out of battle this organization supported direct American involvement in the war as a means of stopping Nazi oppression While most historians have focused on women's pacifism Paton Walsh connects women more directly to world events and shows how those interventionists reformulated maternalist ideas to justify and explain their beliefs Our War Too is a story of American women trying to reconcile the irreconcilable to preserve both their principles and their peace It expands our understanding of women as political actors and thinkers about foreign policy as it sheds new light on American public opinion over the build up to the war
