War Diplomacy And Development:

War, Diplomacy, and Development Stephen R. Niblo, 1995-01-01 Excellent study of the origins of Mexico's rapid industrialization development program and how it went astray Emphasis is on how wartime cooperation led to unprecedented levels of US influence on the economy and investment after the war A blend of war industrialization domestic conservatism and US pressure shifted the Revolution to the right Handbook of Latin American Studies v 58

International Organization in the Anarchical Society Tonny Brems Knudsen, Cornelia Navari, 2018-05-23 This book takes up one of the key theoretical challenges in the English School's conceptual framework namely the nature of the institutions of international society It theorizes their nature through an analysis of the relationship of primary and secondary levels of institutional formation so far largely ignored in English School theorizing and provides case studies to illuminate the theory Hitherto the School has largely failed to study secondary institutions such as international organizations and regimes as autonomous objects of analysis seeing them as mere materializations of primary institutions Building on legal and constructivist arguments about the constitutive character of institutions it demonstrates how primary institutions frame secondary organizations and regimes but also how secondary institutions construct agencies with capacities that impinge upon and can change primary institutions Based on legal and constructivist ideas it develops a theoretical model that sees primary and secondary institutions as shared understandings enmeshed in observable historical processes of constitution reproduction and regulation

The American Imperative Daniel F. Runde, 2023-02-07 It's time for America to get back in the international leadership game What should our global strategy look like in an age of renewed great power competition And what must America offer to a newly empowered developing world when we're no longer the only major player In The American Imperative international development expert Daniel Runde makes the case for building a new global consensus through vigorous internationalism and the judicious use of soft power Runde maps out many of the steps that we need to take primarily in the non-military sphere to ensure an alliance of stable and secure like-minded self-reliant partner nations in order to prevent rising authoritarian powers such as China from running the world Bulletin of the International University Information Office, 1924 Bulletin des relations scientifiques, 1928 Bulletin des relations universitaires International Institute of Intellectual Co-operation, 1924 Bulletin des relations universitaires, 1924
