

The poster features a large, close-up image of a woman's face, looking slightly to the right. Her eyes are closed, and her expression is serene. The background is a dark, textured gradient. A horizontal white streak with motion blur cuts across the middle of the image, partially obscuring the woman's face. Below this streak, the title 'WAY PAST COOL' is written in large, bold, red, sans-serif capital letters. At the bottom of the poster, a cityscape is visible, with several tall buildings and a dense residential area. The overall color palette is dominated by warm tones like red, orange, and yellow, contrasting with the dark background.

Education in the Moral Domain Larry P. Nucci, 2001-05-07 This book brings together the results of 25 years of research on the domain theory of social cognitive development On the basis of that research which shows that morality is a domain distinct from other social values the author provides concrete suggestions for creating a moral classroom climate dealing with student discipline and integrating moral values within the curriculum Among questions addressed are Is morality a set of rules we acquire like any other Are there universal aspects to morality or is it culture specific Is there such a thing as moral character How best can teachers make use of our knowledge about children's moral and social growth in their everyday classroom practices Integrated answers to these questions result in a comprehensive approach that does not reduce moral education to a process of induction or inculcation but rather harnesses children's intrinsic motivation to comprehend and master their social worlds
