Homemaking in the Russian-speaking Diaspora Ekaterina Protassova,Maria Yelenevskaya,2023-04-17 Bringing together scholars specialising in Russian studies linguistic and cultural anthropology sociolinguistics and ethnolinguistics this collection examines the discursive practices in which migrants homes are framed negotiated and constructed to reveal the complexity and ambivalence of home as a concept and as a phenomenon of social life By examining migrants stories about moving home the book explores the stages of linguistic and cultural adaptation It demonstrates that immigrants homes are semiotic storehouses revealing their owners past and present as well as aspirations for the future It presents the first multifaceted investigation of the interdependence of materiality and emotions and materiality and language use by Russian speaking immigrants

Free Russia,1890

Coming Home Nelly Elias,2008-07-22 Coming Home provides an extraordinary glimpse into the social and cultural integration of a unique category of immigrants the returning Diaspora During the 1990s Russian speaking Jews and Germans returned to their respective historic homelands Nelly Elias explores the social and cultural adaptation of these two groups by focusing on the roles played by their native language Russian and the language used by the media of each country Based on one hundred in depth interviews conducted with immigrants now living in both Israel and Germany Coming Home considers media use to be an inseparable part of an immigrant s adaptation strategy simultaneously reflecting construction of a new social and cultural identity while also preserving their original cultural identities
