Betrays of the Body Politic Andrew V. Ettin, 1993 He examines the connection between the personal and the political showing that Gordimer has always seen the two as inseparable and that her understanding of this relationship has developed profoundly during her career Though the book is not biographical it explores more fully than any preceding publication Gordimer's attitudes toward feminism and her connections with her Jewish background thereby expanding our comprehension of her social context Ettin includes a succinct overview of her career and devotes each of six chapters to a major theme tracing and analyzing the themes as they recur in selected stories novels essays and interview reflections and as they have emerged in relation to circumstances of her own life The author sees Gordimer's work as a tool not of propaganda but of understanding a means of sharpening our perceptions of one another's lives      The Essentials of Effective

Gesture, for Students of Public Speaking Joseph Albert Mosher, 1916      Nadine Gordimer Dominic Head, 1994-11-10 The award to Nadine Gordimer of the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1991 was an affirmation of her distinctive contribution to twentieth century fiction and to the creation of a literature that challenges apartheid In this study which may be used as an introduction as well as by those already familiar with Gordimer's work Dominic Head discusses each of her novels in detail paying close attention to the texts both as a reflection of events and situations in the real world and as evidence of her constant rethinking of her craft Head shows how Gordimer's concerns apparent in her earliest novels are developed through increasing stress on the politics of textuality and he pursues the implications of this development to consider how Gordimer's later work contributes to postmodernist fiction and to a recentering of political engagement in an era of uncertainty      The Wound Christine Gruwez, 2026-04-14 What is a wound and what does it reveal about our humanity This book explores the wound not merely as physical or psychological injury but as a rupture in relationship a tearing apart of what was once whole Pain is its signal disconnection its consequence Yet beneath every injury lies a deeper mystery Are human beings wounded simply by virtue of being human Is there a primordial wound that precedes all others and if so how might it be healed These questions lie at the heart of this volume which emerged from an international conference on biographical work held in Dresden in 2015 a city profoundly marked by the devastation of war At a time when violent conflict has returned to Europe The Wound's themes feel urgently contemporary Drawing on Rudolf Steiner's lectures on The Mystery of the Wound Christine Gruwez explores the wound as both the consequence of destruction and the source of healing Without a wound there is no power to heal without evil no possibility of redemption Gruwez connects these insights to central questions of our time vulnerability crisis and the conditions of incarnation itself She offers readers a key to understanding their own relationship to suffering and for approaching others inwardly and creatively The book thus becomes a source of inspiration for counselling biographical work and for all those seeking pathways from separation toward healing reconciliation and transformation

From the Margins of Empire Louise Yelin, 2018-05-31 Situated at the intersection of the colonial and the postcolonial the modern and the postmodern the novelists Christina Stead Doris Lessing and Nadine Gordimer all bear witness to this century's global transformations From the Margins of Empire looks at how the question of national identity is constructed in their writings These authors white women who were born or grew up in British colonies or former colonies reflect the subject of national identity in vastly different ways in both their lives and their work Stead who resided outside of her native Australia has an unsettled identity Lessing who grew up in southern Rhodesia and migrated to England is or has become English Gordimer who was born in South Africa and remains there considers herself South African Louise Yelin shows how the three writers different national identities are inscribed in their fiction The invented hybrid character of nationality is she maintains a constant throughout Locating the writings of Stead Lessing and Gordimer in the national cultures that produced and read them she considers the questions they raise about the roles that whites especially white women can play in the new political and cultural order
