IAAC Bits 10 - Learning Cities Areti Markopoulou, 2023-06-20 The digital intelligence that is inevitably starting to penetrate every aspect of our previously analogue systems of living working or social interacting calls for new models of designing our city and opens new territories of experimentation in the processes related to urban design While the idea of intelligent machines that simulate cognitive functions such as learning or problem solving is not new its extensive use in recent years in the urban design discipline opens up a series of new possibilities as well as plenty of cultural ethical or even aesthetic hesitations and risks How do our cities learn Can machines design and what Is crowd intelligence appropriately harvested in our evolutionary and generative design processes And has our current big data analysis approach reached the limit of human and computational intelligence Learning Cities explores the intelligence applied in the processes and outcomes of designing our urban environments From a variety of applications of artificial intelligence and machine learning for urban planning to co creation processes that merge crowd intelligence with digital technologies Learning Cities highlights that intelligence in the built environment should be understood beyond human object or machinic intelligence alone Through a variety of contributions from experts in different fields the current IAAC Bits Journal Issue explores novel collective intelligence design processes in which designers users the built environment and digital codes all play a fundamental role in a unique resonance that takes place among them With Contributions of Areti Markopoulou Manuel Gausa Jordi Vivaldi Benjamin Bratton John Frazer Molly Wright Steenson Stanislas Chaillou Sarah Williams Theodora Vardouli Neil Leach Angelos Chronis Jos S nchez Mathilde Marengo Aldo Sollazzo Aleksandra Sojka Matias del Campo Chiara Farinea Rodrigo Delso Sandra Maninger Javier Argota Cobus Bothma and others

Architectural Intelligence Molly Wright Steenson, 2017-12-22 Architects who engaged with cybernetics artificial intelligence and other technologies poured the foundation for digital interactivity In Architectural Intelligence Molly Wright Steenson explores the work of four architects in the 1960s and 1970s who incorporated elements of interactivity into their work Christopher Alexander Richard Saul Wurman Cedric Price and Nicholas Negroponte and the MIT Architecture Machine Group all incorporated technologies including cybernetics and artificial intelligence into their work and influenced digital design practices from the late 1980s to the present day Alexander long before his famous 1977 book A Pattern Language used computation and structure to visualize design problems Wurman popularized the notion of information architecture Price designed some of the first intelligent buildings and Negroponte experimented with the ways people experience artificial intelligence even at architectural scale Steenson investigates how these architects pushed the boundaries of architecture and how their technological experiments pushed the boundaries of technology What did computational cybernetic and artificial intelligence researchers have to gain by engaging with architects and architectural problems And what was this new space that emerged within these collaborations At times Steenson writes the architects in this book characterized themselves as anti architects and their work as anti architecture The projects Steenson examines mostly did not result in constructed buildings but rather in design processes and tools computer programs interfaces digital environments Alexander Wurman Price and Negroponte laid the foundation for many of our contemporary interactive practices from information architecture to interaction design from machine learning to smart cities

The Responsive Environment Larry D. Busbea,2020-01-21 How new conceptions of human environment interaction became central to design theories and practices in the 1970s At the end of the 1960s new models of responsiveness between humans and their environments had a profound impact on theories and practices in architecture design art technology media and the sciences The resulting initiatives design philosophies art installations architectural projects exhibitions publications and symposia sought to bring together insights from biology systems theory psychology and anthropology with modernist legacies of total design In The Responsive Environment Larry D Busbea takes up this concept of environment as an object and method of design at the height of its aesthetic technical and discursive elaboration Exploring emerging paradigms of environmental perception patterning and control as developed by Gregory Bateson Edward T Hall Wolf Hilbertz Gyrgy Kepes Marshall McLuhan Nicholas Negroponte Paolo Soleri and others he shows how living space itself was reimagined as a domain capable of modification through input from its newly sensitized inhabitants The Responsive Environment intercuts the development of new ideas about environmental awareness with case studies of specific architecture and design projects for responsive environments Throughout Busbea connects these theories and practices to the contemporary obsession with smart things responsive technologies intelligent environments biomimetic materials and digital atmospherics

Conscientious Thinking David Bosworth,2017 David Bosworth cuts through all the noise of today's political dysfunction and cultural wars to sound the deeper causes of our discontent He explores the ways in which Americans are affected by the irreversible forces set loose by technology's drastic revision of our everyday lives
