Cultural Memory and Historical Consciousness in the German-speaking World Since 1500 Christian Emden, David R. Midgley, 2004 This is the first of three volumes based on papers given at the conference The Fragile Tradition The German Cultural Imagination Since 1500 in Cambridge 2002 Together they provide a conspectus of current research on the cultural historical and literary imagination of the German speaking world across the whole of the modern period This volume highlights the ways in which cultural memory and historical consciousness have been shaped by experiences of discontinuity focusing particularly on the reception of the Reformation the literary and ideological heritage of the Enlightenment and the representation of war the Holocaust and the reunification of Germany in contemporary literature and museum culture The Secular Enlightenment Margaret Jacob, 2021-04-20 Provides a panoramic account of the radical ways that life began to change for ordinary people in the age of Locke Voltaire and Rousseau In this book familiar Enlightenment figures share places with voices that have remained largely unheard until now from freethinkers and freemasons to French materialists anticlerical Catholics pantheists pornographers readers and travelers Jacob reveals how this newly secular outlook was not a wholesale rejection of Christianity but rather a new mental space in which to encounter the world on its own terms She takes readers from London and Amsterdam to Berlin Vienna Turin and Naples drawing on rare archival materials to show how ideas central to the emergence of secular democracy touched all facets of daily life Jacob demonstrates how secular values and pursuits took hold of eighteenth century Europe spilled into the American colonies and left their lasting imprint on the Western world for generations to come Adapted from publisher description The Politics of Cultural Retreat Iryna Vushko,2015-05-26 An illuminating history of state building nationalism and bureaucracy this book tells the story of how an international cohort of Austrian officials from Bohemia Hungary the Hapsburg Netherlands Italy and several German states administered Galicia from its annexation from Poland Lithuania in 1772 until the beginning of Polish autonomy in 1867 Historian Iryna Vushko examines the interactions between these German speaking bureaucrats and the local Galician population of Poles Ukrainians and Jews She reveals how Enlightenment inspired theories of modernity and supranational uniformity essentially backfired ultimately bringing about results that starkly contradicted the original intentions and ideals of the imperial governors

The Idea of National Superiority in Central Europe, 1880-1918 Marius Turda, 2004 This book focuses on the ways in which biological discourses of race and ethnicity affected and shaped nationalism and the idea of national superiority in Central Europe between 1880 and 1918. Preface In this book Marius Turda shifts a familiar and topical debate on to unfamiliar and neglected ground. Since the shattering events of the 1930s and 1940s much has been written about the genesis of notions of race in Central Europe. The blending of organic and collectivist traditions in German thought with the evolutionary arguments which derived especially from Darwin and with biological ideas about heredity was catalysed from the 1860s onward by increasingly intense nationalist sentiments. None of this led directly to Nazism but it did create a climate in which such racist conceptions might be able to thrive. Their relation to forms of ethnic self-assertion was direct and immediate. Here is Turda's starting point. Austria-Hungary in its last decades became notorious for nationality conflicts but hitherto it has been generally held that racial theories played a comparatively minor role there. Austria as a pressure group Their rabid anti-Semitism shaded into a more broadly shared dislike of the salient role of the Jews in the country's public life. Turda expands on the theoretical and quasi scientific context for this demonstrating in particular the influence of Houston Stewart Chamberlain who lived for some time in Vienna and of Ludwig Gumplowicz the cult sociologist of his day But Turda s real novelty is to extend to the other half of the Dual Monarchy his analysis of the growing role of race Hungary had some essential preconditions for it to infect national ideology There was acute competition between ethnic groups mainly a series of bilateral contests between the dominant Magyar interest with its relative majority of the population and the half dozen other significant nationalities Moreover there was still an inherited discourse of an essentially tribal kind the Magyars as a pristine blood brotherhood as conquerors and warriors or to their opponents as Asian immigrants and uncultivated barbarians nineteenth century from vindication of the nobles and their political and social privileges to cover a whole ethnic community bound by fierce adherence to Hungarian integral statehood and to Magyar linguistic culture Yet the racial element has usually appeared to be balanced for historians by another long established feature of Magyar hegemony its attractiveness to many born outside the Magyar camp and the concomitant willingness of the latter to accept on equal terms those who assimilated to its values Over the centuries that had been a historical reality as well as equally importantly a perception of Magyar hospitableness magnanimity and adaptability With most of the commentators whom Turda examines it remains a clear principle This is hardly surprising whereas only one of them Zolt Beothy was the scion of an ancestral noble or gentry family fully half came themselves from a non Magyar background Anti Semitism in particular was largely absent from the Hungarian debate of his innovative account of racial thinking among influential representatives of the ruling culture of Dualist Hungary He sets it in relief with his concluding portrait of a Romanian Aurel Popovici whose ideas about race likewise drew on a traditional national agenda in this case defensive attitudes specifically resistant to Hungarian assimilatory pressures and stressing purity of descent as distinctive of Romanians ethnic identity Popovici s work was a milestone in the heightened sensitivity to issues of national degeneracy which set in after the turn of the twentieth century and as such anticipated one of the principal obsessions of later fascist ideology In 1908 a wandering Scotsman Scotus Viator nom de plume of the young historian Robert William Seton Watson published a devastating critique of the politics of integration being pursued by Magyars He called it Racial Problems in Hungary Thus the most significant work of the leading foreign contributor to the debate on the nationality issue in the Habsburg Monarchy carried the keyword of Turda s investigation in its very title been called peoples and in our day are often known as ethnic groups there is no imputation for this British liberal of blood descent common physical characteristics or claims to inborn superiority Yet the terminology itself could easily become loaded with fresh meanings That would take place dramatically a decade later when the whole Habsburg edifice collapsed and a resultant new structure which Seton Watson had a share in creating unleashed yet more embittered nationalist clashes on the region Marius Turda has been uniquely placed to bring this project to fruition Bringing good knowledge of all the relevant languages including German and Hungarian as well as his native Romanian he has studied and researched in a number of different environments and acquired a notable scholarly detachment for dealing with these highly controversial issues and opens up broad and rich new perspectives on the political thought and intellectual culture of a part of Europe which contributed greatly to the instability of the whole continent in the early twentieth century R J W Evans
