The Lights Of Home:

The Lights of Home Jason Weiss,2014-01-02 Because of political cultural or economic difficulties in their homelands Latin American writers have often sought refuge abroad Their independent searches for a haven in which to write often ended in Paris long a city of writes in exile This is more than solely a group biography of these writers or an explication of material they wrote about Paris it is also a luminous account of the work they wrote while in Paris often based in their homelands It explores how Paris reacted to this wave of Latin American writers and how these writers absorbed Parisian influences and welded them to their own traditions setting the stage for immense success and power of works coming from Central and South America over the last half of the twentieth century The Lights of Home Sandy Williams

Driver,2005-01-01 Dalton Morrow has everything he always dreamed about an elegant house in an upscale neighborhood expensive automobiles and very few wants or needs He tries in vain to forget the meager Christmas holidays of his childhood by spending hundreds of dollars each December on extravagant decorations and strands of twinkling lights to adorn his home A tragic accident sends Dalton on a voyage of self discovery to re live his past and help him understand the true meaning of life and happiness which his father tried so valiantly to teach all his children during the Depression stricken days of the 1930s and 1940s in rural Alabama A timeless story that will warm hearts year round Ainslee's ,1904 Michigan
