Topics 2000 G. Berz, T. Loster, A. Wirtz, 1999 MANAGING CRISES Uriel Rosenthal, Arjen Boin, Louise K.

Comfort, 2001-01-01 In this book the editors with 25 notable contributors expand the knowledge of crisis management focusing on case studies of high profile events that have occurred in recent history Part One of the text aims at theoretical development through empirical case studies and also postulates a crisis typology and charts specific theoretical and administrative challenges The case bank which comprises the bulk of the book is presented in four additional sections The first deals with the development of crises and compares the infamous Watts riots with the 1992 L A riots It also analyzes the fragmented and complex international environment that allowed the safe area in Bosnia to be overrun by Bosnian Serbs in 1995 The final chapter chronicles the incredible human costs of mismanaged crisis in the Rwanda massacres in 1994 The second section explores the many decisional dilemmas that confront crisis managers Cases include the fire at the Piper Alpha oil rig the 1999 Turkish earthquakes the Eindhoven Holland plane crash and crisis management of the Mad Cow epidemic disease in the U K The third section explores the long term dimensions of crises and crisis management and particularly the development of national traumas such as the assassination of Sweden s Prime Minister Olaf Palme in 1986 the 1992 Amsterdam air crash and the TWA flight 800 disaster in 1996 The final section shifts focus to future scenarios such as speculative information technology disasters potentially devastating viral epidemics deteriorating environmental and societal conditions in Russia the southwest U S coming water shortage and the outlook for Japan one of the world s most disaster prone countries Summarizing the research findings of the past decade the authors describe patterns in the paths toward crises the dilemmas and coping mechanisms that emerge during the thick of crisis and very importantly the pathways that lead away from crisis

Vital Signs 2001-2002 Worldwatch Institute, 2014-04-08 This annual volume from the Worldwatch Institute gives prominence to key trends that too often escape the attention of the news media world leaders and economic experts By distilling 45 vital signs of our times from thousands of government industrial and scientific sources the volume allows readers to track key indicators that show social economic and environmental progress or the lack of it Each trend is presented in both text and graphics

Climatic Change: Implications for the Hydrological Cycle and for Water Management Martin Beniston, 2006-04-11 year simulations in order to separate noise in the system from the climate change signal Several contributing papers focused on case studies using Regional Climate Models RCMs linked to hydrological models applied to the analysis of runoff under conditions of convective activity and extreme precipitation in regions of complex topography or stakeholder driven investigations such as water runoff simulations in Quebec undertaken for a major utility Thorough analyses of GCM results for the Century were reported at the Workshop in order to illustrate the improvements in model results which have taken place in recent years and the increasing confidence with which the models can be used for projecting climatic change in coming decades However there is still much room for improvement there is also a need to address more fully the manner in which climate and impacts models e.g. hydrological models can be linked in terms of consistency and the overlap between different scales the underlying physical assumptions and the parameterizations used

Session 2 was devoted to the two extremes of water resources namely floods and droughts the focus here being to identify the climate change component in river floods These have significant economic implications as was shown by several scientists from Western and Central Europe Many long time series have been studied worldwide with the aim of detection of nonstationarities yet there is no conclusive evidence of climate related changes in flow records in general Vital Signs 2001 Janet N. Abramovitz, Worldwatch Institute, 2001 Discusses trends in food and agriculture energy the atmosphere the economy transportation health and society the military and the environment Climate Change 2001: The Scientific Basis J. T. Houghton, Y. Ding, D. J. Griggs, M. Noguer, P. J. van der Linden, X. Dai, K. Maskell, C. A. Johnson, 2001-07-12 Climate Change 2001 The Scientific Basis is the most comprehensive and up to date scientific assessment of past present and future climate change The report Analyses an enormous body of observations of all parts of the climate system Catalogues increasing concentrations of atmospheric greenhouse gases Assesses our understanding of the processes and feedbacks which govern the climate system Projects scenarios of future climate change using a wide range of models of future emissions of greenhouse gases and aerosols Makes a detailed study of whether a human influence on climate can be identified Suggests gaps in information and understanding that remain in our knowledge of climate change and how these might be addressed This latest IPCC assessment will again form the standard scientific reference for all concerned with climate change and its consequences including students and researchers in all aspects of environmental and atmospheric science and policymakers in governments and industry worldwide State of the World 2001 Lester Russell Brown, Worldwatch Institute, 2001 An indispensable guide for anyone concerned with the future of life on our planet Hazards of Nature, Risks to Development, 2006-01-01 An evaluation carried out by the Independent Evaluation Group IEG an autonomous body reporting directly to the Board of Executive Directors of the World Bank Group to assess the effectiveness of the Bank's development efforts and one of the most comprehensive reviews of disaster preparedness and response ever conducted Calls for new thinking that integrates predictable disaster risks into development programs Concludes that it is possible to anticipate where many natural disasters will strike yet expresses concerns that the World Bank's disaster assistance efforts are underutilizing these vital lifesaving forecasts Climate Change 2001: Impacts, Adaptation, and Vulnerability James J. McCarthy, Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change. Working Group II., 2001-07-02 Climate Change 2001 Impacts Adaptation and Vulnerability is the most comprehensive and up to date scientific assessment of the consequences of and adaptation responses to climate change The report Evaluates evidence that recent observed changes in climate have already affected a variety of physical and biological systems Studies the vulnerabilities of human populations to future climate change including associated sea level rise and climate extremes such as floods Takes into account potential impacts on water resources agriculture and food human health settlements and economic activities Assesses potential responses to climate change of natural environments and the wildlife that inhabit them and identifies environments at particular risk Considers how adaptation to climate change might lessen adverse impacts or enhance beneficial impacts Provides an overview of the vulnerabilities and adaptation possibilities for all major regions of the world Contrasts the different vulnerabilities of the developed and developing parts of the world and explores the implications for sustainable development and equity concerns This latest IPCC assessment will again form the standard scientific reference for all concerned with environmental and social consequences of climate change including students and researchers in environmental and social sciences and policymakers and managers in governmental industry and other organizations responsible for resources likely to be affected by climate change
