Unsettling Cities Movement Settlement:

Unsettling Cities John Allen, Doreen Massey, Michael Pryke, 2005-08-12 This text examines the global nature of cities whose openness has shaped their dynamism and character. It explores cities as sites of movement, migration, and settlement where different peoples, cultures, and environments combine. Unsettling Cities explores the mix of proximity and difference that exists in the rich and diverse texture of city life. The contributors reveal the association between the changing fortunes of cities and the power and influence of global networks.

Language and the City Diarmait Mac Giolla Chríost, 2007-06-29 This book shows the effects of globalization on language in social context, identifying the city as the key site for the realization of these effects. It challenges assumptions that hold sustainable linguistic diversity to be inherently non-urban while regarding the city as an unproblematic site for understanding the social function of language.

Splintering Urbanism Steve Graham, Simon Marvin, 2002-09-11 Splintering Urbanism makes an international and interdisciplinary analysis of the complex interactions between infrastructure networks and urban spaces. It delivers a new and powerful way of understanding contemporary urban change, bringing together discussions about globalization and the city, technology and society, urban space and urban networks, infrastructure and the built environment, developed, developing, and post-communist worlds. With a range of case studies, illustrations, and boxed examples from New York to Jakarta, Johannesburg to Manila, and Sao Paulo to Melbourne, Splintering Urbanism demonstrates the latest social, urban, and technological theories which give us an understanding of our contemporary metropolis.

Mobilities and Inequality Hanja Maksim, Manfred Max Bergman, 2016-04-22 This book opens up the debate on the interrelations between space and mobilities with regard to different dimensions of social inequality. Based on the premise that the dynamics caused by modernization, globalization, migration, and social change affect the structuring of the social fabric, the focus of the book is to illuminate these processes of social and spatial restructurings. A leading team of contributors from the Cosmobilities network highlight different aspects of inequality in relation to mobilities, such as gender, supplying transport infrastructure, job-related relocations, multi-locality, social network geography, and socio-spatial development.

Linguistic Landscape in the City Elana Goldberg Shohamy, Eliezer Ben Rafael, Monica Barni, 2010 Elana Shohamy is a professor and chair of the language education program at the School of Education, Tel Aviv University, where she teaches, researches, and writes about multiple issues relating to multilingualism, language policy, language testing, and language in the public space.

A Tale of Two Global Cities Jonathan Rutherford, 2004 Since the mid-1980s, telecommunications and information technologies (IT) have become more intensely bound up than ever before in the social, economic, political, and cultural processes and transformations which are increasingly concentrated in and between key strategic urban places across the globe. By analysing telecommunications developments in Paris and London, this book offers an explicit comparative and cross-national approach to the development of urban telecommunications infrastructures and to the development of global cities through a focus on these crucial infrastructures engagement with the most relevant and recent debates and theories in urban studies geography and planning By examining differing but parallel influences of national urban and local contexts processes and practices bound up in telecommunications developments the book firmly underlines the inherently territorial basis of these developments and their multi scalar elements and implications all of which are being reinforced by the current stringent strategic retrenching of telecommunications operations around the globe Environment and Planning ,1999 Journal of urban planning and design Publishes research in the application of formal methods methods models and theories to spatial problems involving the built environment and the spatial structure of cities and regions Includes the application of computers to planning and design in particular the use of shape grammars artificial intelligence and morphological methods to buildings and towns the use of multimedia and GIS in urban and regional planning and the development of ideas concerning the virtual city Mussolini's Cities Federico Caprotti,2007 Between 1930 and 1939 the Pontine Marshes became the target of massive national investment internal migration often non voluntary and engineering work Written by an Oxford University professor this book explores the architectural and urban planning aspects of the totalitarian minds which devised and built the new cities Environment & Planning ,2003 The Representation of Place Michael Miller,2003 This work considers how myth collective memory and history interact in the construction of place based identities in the city and how such identities become crucial stakes in determining the future of particular areas neighbourhoods and districts By analysing two case studies of public protest against urban planning projects the author looks at how dominant discourses promoted by urban elites have been challenged by groups with little experience of participating in urban governance Urban Biosphere and Society Christine Alfsen-Norodom,Benjamin D.
