God and Horrendous Suffering, 2nd Ed. John W. Loftus, M.A, M.Div. Th.M., 2026-01-07 This is an anthology written by scholars and experts on horrendous suffering given an all good all knowing and all powerful God It seeks to help readers understand the problem by discussing this issue philosophically theologically apologetically biblically religiously and personally It's an excellent model for how philosophers apologists and theologians should discuss this problem It begins by sharing a written debate John Loftus had with Dr Don McIntosh about horrendous suffering The evidential problem of horrendous suffering is this book's focus with a chapter on the logical problem of evil by Dr James Sterba and the emotional problem of evil by Loftus The problem addressed in the book is expressed as follows If there's a theistic God one who is omnibenevolent or perfectly good omniscient or all knowing and omnipotent or all powerful the issue of why there is horrendous suffering in the world requires an explanation The reason is that a perfectly good God would want to eliminate it an all knowing God would know how to eliminate it and an all powerful God would be able to eliminate it So the extent of horrendous suffering means that either God does not care enough to eliminate it or God is not smart enough to eliminate it or God is not powerful enough to eliminate it The stubborn fact of horrendous suffering means something is wrong with God's goodness his knowledge or his ability
