Eco-Innovation and Sustainable Development in Industry 5.0 Atiku, Sulaiman Olusegun, Jeremiah, Andrew, Semente, Efigenia, Boateng, Frank, 2024-06-05 In the era of Industry 5.0 the world faces a critical juncture where technological advancement collides with escalating socio environmental challenges Climate change energy consumption and threats to public health are exacerbated by the rapid embrace of Industry 4.0 technologies As businesses pursue efficiency the compromise on human and social sustainability becomes inevitable The need for a holistic approach to sustainable development is urgent where economic growth aligns seamlessly with environmental social and human well being Eco Innovation and Sustainable Development in Industry 5.0 serves as a guide in the pursuit of sustainable development within Industry 5.0 This book dissects the intricate challenges posed by socio environmental issues and seamlessly offers a multidisciplinary approach to achieving sustainable development goals The detrimental impact of Industry 4.0 on sustainable development necessitates the paradigm shift proposed within the book Economic pursuits can no longer overshadow the crucial pillars of human social and environmental sustainability. The delicate balance required for a sustainable future is at risk, demanding a multidisciplinary approach to reconcile these seemingly conflicting objectives. This book is a call to action to bridge the knowledge gap and provide tangible solutions for achieving sustainability in Industry 5.0.

Consumer Moral Leadership Sue L.T. McGregor, 2010-01-01. This book shares a collection of novel ways to reconceptualize and envision the moral imperatives of consumption, thereby providing invigorating insights for future dialogue and intellectual and social action. It privileges a consumer moral leadership imperative which augments the conventional management imperatives of sustainability ethics, simplicity, and environmental integrity. There are 13 chapters, including first-ever discussions of non-violent consumption, transdisciplinary consumption, consumer moral adulthood, integral informed consumption, conscious and mindful consumption, biomimicry-informed consumption, and consumer moral leadership as a new intellectual construct. The book strives to intellectually and philosophically challenge and reframe the act, culture, and ideology of consuming. The intent is to foster new hope that leads to differently informed activism and to provocative research, policy, entrepreneurial, and educational initiatives that favour the human condition, the collective human family, and interconnected integrity. This book strives to move consumers from managing for efficiency to leading for moral efficacy, the ability to use their existing moral capacities to deal with moral challenges in the marketplace. The very core of what it means to be a morally responsible member of the human family is challenged and re-framed through the lens of consumer moral leadership.

Communicating Sustainability for the Green Economy Lynn R. Kahle, Eda Gurel-Atay, 2015-01-28. With chapters written by experts in their field, this volume advances the understanding of theory and successful practice of marketing and promoting environmental sustainability. Some experts predict that the next big trend in business will involve the green economy. Yet communicating sustainability to consumers provides a set of challenges for marketers that do not necessarily follow all the rules of other types of marketing communication. In many ways, the concept of sustainability challenges the core ideals of promoting consumption. Accordingly, this book identifies for researchers and practitioners the barriers that keep customers from engaging in environmentally sustainable consumption and finds ways to overcome those barriers. The book includes topics such as corporate advertising strategy related to sustainability, corporate social responsibility, advertising greenwashing, advertising related to values, persuasion, and persuasion knowledge in sustainability marketing, social media and sustainability, and advertising and public policy.

Cause related marketing CRM a tool of corporate social responsibility has grown significantly since the beginning of the 1980s The strategy consists of a contribution to a cause through a purchase of a product service by consumers This research set out to test the potential influence of gender and or values on CRM message evaluations for a health disease versus non health disease cause A new model combining the Elaboration Likelihood Model and the Selectivity Model is tested Additionally by perceiving and processing corporations intentions as exploitative consumers may develop resistance toward the company its brand product and the cause being supported Whether consumers have negative attitudes and purchase intentions toward companies sponsoring causes is also examined in this research A 2 gender women men x 2 groups treatment control x 2 corporations sponsoring health disease non health disease causes within subject repeated measures experimental design was applied The experiment was divided in three sessions 1 pretest where participants rated two existing companies 2 treatment where priming effects of a social cause are measured and 3 posttest a two week follow up procedure to gauge participants responses at a delay A total of 444 students participated in the study As predicted women demonstrated more positive attitudes toward the company brand product sponsoring a health disease cause and the sponsorship of a health disease cause than did men No evidence was found that women favored more a health disease cause than a non health disease cause Types of social causes did not affect individuals involvement with the product of companies sponsoring social causes either Although women evaluated themselves as more caring than did men caring values did not mediate the relationship between gender and attitudes toward corporate sponsorship and purchase intentions As expected consumers demonstrated more resistance to CRM messages if they had less positive general attitudes toward corporate sponsorship of a social cause Particularly men showed more skepticism toward CRM programs than did women However the expectations for the Selectivity Model were not supported as women and men did not process messages differently
