Armed Forces Bill

Sir Mike:

Operations in Afghanistan Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee,2011-07-17 This report looks at operations in Afghanistan since 2006 and makes further recommendations for the anticipated draw down of forces UK Forces were deployed in Helmand Province in Afghanistan for three years from 2006 without the necessary personnel equipment or intelligence to succeed in their mission Mistakes were made as a result of a failure in military and political coordination The decision to move UK Armed Forces into the South of Afghanistan in early 2006 was not fully thought through The Committee is concerned that the MoD did not anticipate that the presence of the Armed Forces in Helmand might stir up a hornets nest especially as much of the intelligence was contradictory Senior military advisers should have drawn attention to the need for force levels to be sufficiently robust to cope with an unpredictable conflict The Committee is disturbed that the Secretary of State was told that commanders on the ground were content with the support they were being given in Helmand when clearly they were not After only a matter of months in Helmand the nature of the UK Mission changed with serious strategic implications The MoD did not respond quickly enough to changes in Taliban tactics The MoD should prioritise the protection of personnel The Government s room for manoeuvre regarding the number of troops that could be withdrawn from Afghanistan as part of an immediate transition is necessarily limited More emphasis needs to be placed on capacity building within the political system if long term success is to be achieved Delivering the cancer reform strategy Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts,Margaret Hodge,2011-03 This report examines the Department of Health s and the NHS s performance in delivering cancer services improving information on activity cost and outcomes of cancer services and how the Department intends to deliver cost effective cancer services in the new NHS The NHS spent 6.3 billion on cancer services in 2008-09 Tackling Cancer has been a priority for the Department since its ten year NHS Cancer Plan was published in 2000 In 2007 the Department published its five year Cancer Reform Strategy the Strategy to deliver improved patient outcomes The NHS has made significant progress in delivering important aspects of cancer services with falling mortality rates and consistent achievement of the cancer waiting times targets However early diagnosis does not happen often enough And the gap in survival rates between England and the best European countries has not been closed There remain wide unexplained variations in the performance of cancer services and in the types of treatment available across the country and significant gaps in information about important aspects of cancer services in particular information on chemotherapy on follow up treatment and on the stage that a patient s cancer has reached at the time of diagnosis The Department cannot yet measure the impact of the Strategy on key outcomes such as survival rates and does not know if cancer services are being commissioned cost effectively due to poor data on costs and because outcomes data are not sufficiently timely The Department must ensure the collection of high quality comprehensive and timely data Armed Forces Bill Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Select Committee on the Armed
