and blindly for he cannot see his object but he will find his answer it will offer itself to him When God sees a soul in quest of Him He meets her ah more than half way Seek and you shall find Love meets his object He grapples with it in the darkness of this mortal life and he forces its secret out Tell me what art Thou The answer comes straight from God Himself not by words of human speech but by a burning impression of His own Divine substance upon the substance of the soul wherein He gives her to know what He is God is Charity We can infer a definition of a mystic from this Is the mystic always able accurately to account for his new knowledge of God No he is not always conscious of it He certainly could not put it into words and he does not care to do so he does not care to speak of it He keeps his secret or rather the secret of the King well He loves that is enough for him A mystic simply loves God and does not worry about the rest Our job is to become true mystics as Father Louismet outlines in his works A Poem to the Divine Majesty William PRESTON (Writer to the Signet.),1758
