The Salvation Army Farm Colonies:

The Salvation Army Farm Colonies Clark C. Spence, 1985 Around the turn of the century the Salvation Army founded three intentional communities in Colorado Ohio and California in an effort to relieve urban poverty that followed in the wake of rapid industrialization Conceived by founder William Booth the project was organized by his son in law Frederick Booth Tucker commander of the Salvation Army in the United States Clark Spence s account of this back to the land experiment is at once agricultural social religious and even political history enacted on both sides of the Atlantic in the irrigated beet and alfalfa fields where small farmers fought hoppers drought or saline soil in an effort to wrest a living from their twenty acres at the fund raising meetings where the Booth Tuckers garnered both applause and dollars from business leaders and in the halls of Congress and Parliament where Army supporters argued in vain for government subsidies Jacket flap Farm Colonies of the Salvation Army Frederick St. George De Lautour Booth-Tucker, 1898 The Farm Colonies of the Salvation Army, Or, A Poor Man's Paradise, 189? Hadleigh Salvation Army Farm Gordon Parkhill, Graham Cook, 2008 Hadleigh was to be the Farm Colony with the City Colony and the Overseas Colony forming the other two parts of the scheme This book traces the history of the Hadleigh Farm Colony Report on the Salvation Army Colonies in the United States and at Hadleigh, England Henry Rider Haggard, 1905 Farm Colonies of the Salvation Army Frederick St. George de Lautour Booth Tucker, 1903 Domestic Colonies Barbara Arneil, 2017-10-06 Modern colonization is generally defined as a process by which a state settles and dominates a foreign land and people This book argues that through the nineteenth and into the first half of the twentieth centuries thousands of domestic colonies were proposed and or created by governments and civil society organizations for fellow citizens as opposed to foreigners and within their own borders rather than overseas Such colonies sought to solve every social problem arising within industrializing and urbanizing states Domestic Colonies argues that colonization ought to be seen during this period as a domestic policy designed to solve social problems at home as well as foreign policy designed to expand imperial power Three kind of domestic colonies are analysed in this book labour colonies for the idle poor farm colonies for the mentally ill and disabled and utopian colonies for racial religious and political minorities All of them were justified by an ideology of colonialism that argued if people were segregated in colonies located on empty land and engaged in agrarian labour this would improve both the people and the land Key domestic colonialists analysed in this book include Alexis de Tocqueville Abraham Lincoln Peter Kropotkin Robert Owen and Booker T Washington The turn inward to colony thus requires us to rethink the meaning and scope of colonization and colonialism in modern political theory and practice Report on Labour Colonies James Mavor, R. Patrick Wright, 1892 From the slum to the farm colony, an account of the social work of the Salvation army Dick Browne, 1896 Civilizing Missions in Colonial and Postcolonial South Asia Carey A. Watt, Michael Mann, 2011-03-15 Civilizing Missions in Colonial and Postcolonial South Asia offers a series of analyses that highlights the complexities of British and Indian civilizing missions in original ways and through various historiographical approaches The book applies the concept of the civilizing mission to a number of issues in the colonial and postcolonial eras in South Asia economic development state building pacification nationalism cultural improvement gender and generational relations caste and untouchability religion and missionaries class relations urbanization NGOs and civil society
