The Wetlands Of Merseyside:

The Wetlands of Merseyside R. W. Cowell, J. B. Innes, 1994 This is the first in a new series presenting the results from English Heritage's survey of the wetlands in the north western counties of England Following introductory chapters on background and methodology the authors examine the landscape ecology and archaeology of the North Wirral mosslands the Sefton mosslands the Central and Eastern mosslands and the southern mosses The final chapter provides a synthesis of the evidence from the early Mesolithic through to the post medieval period The wider significance of the Merseyside evidence is underlined at many points for example in tracing the introduction of farming to the region perhaps several centuries earlier than for Britain as a whole The Archaeology of Merseyside in 20 Digs Liz Stewart, Vanessa Oakden, 2022-04-15 Published in association with the Museum of Liverpool this book explores 20 significant archaeological digs on Merseyside and what they uncovered Custom, Improvement and the Landscape in Early Modern Britain Richard W. Hoyle, 2017-03-02 A great deal has been written about the acceleration of English agriculture in the early modern period In the late middle ages it was hard to see that English agriculture was so very different from that of the continent but by 1750 levels of agricultural productivity in Britain were well ahead of those general in northern Europe The country had become much more urban and the proportion of the population engaged in agriculture had fallen Customary modes of behaviour whilst often bitterly defended had largely been swept away Contemporaries were quite clear that a process of improvement had taken place which had seen agriculture reshaped and made much more productive Exactly what that process was has remained surprisingly obscure This volume addresses the fundamental notion of improvement in the development of the British landscape from the sixteenth to the nineteenth century Contributors present a variety of cases of how improvement custom and resistance impacted on the local landscape which includes manorial estates enclosures fens forests and urban commons Disputes between tenants and landlords and between neighbouring landlords over improvement meant that new economic and social identities were forged in the battle between innovation and tradition The volume also includes an analysis of the role of women as agricultural improvers and a case study of what can happen when radical improvement failed The volume will be essential reading for scholars of landscape studies rural and agrarian history but will also provide a useful context for anybody studying the historical legacy of mankind's exploitation of the environment and its social economic legal and political consequences Directory of Museums, Galleries and Buildings of Historic Interest in the UK Keith W. Reynard, 2004-03-01 This unique and important directory incorporates some 3 200 entries It covers all types and sizes of museums galleries of paintings sculpture and photography and buildings and sites of particular historic interest It also provides an extensive index listing over 3 200 subjects The directory covers national collections and major buildings but also the more unusual less well known and local exhibits and sites The Directory of Museums Galleries and Buildings of Historic Interest in the United Kingdom is an indispensable reference source for any library an ideal companion for researcher and
