The World's Indigenous Peoples

While Indigenous Peoples comprise 6% of the world's population, their lands and territories constitute at least 25% of the global land surface including unique ecosystems and vital biodiversity.

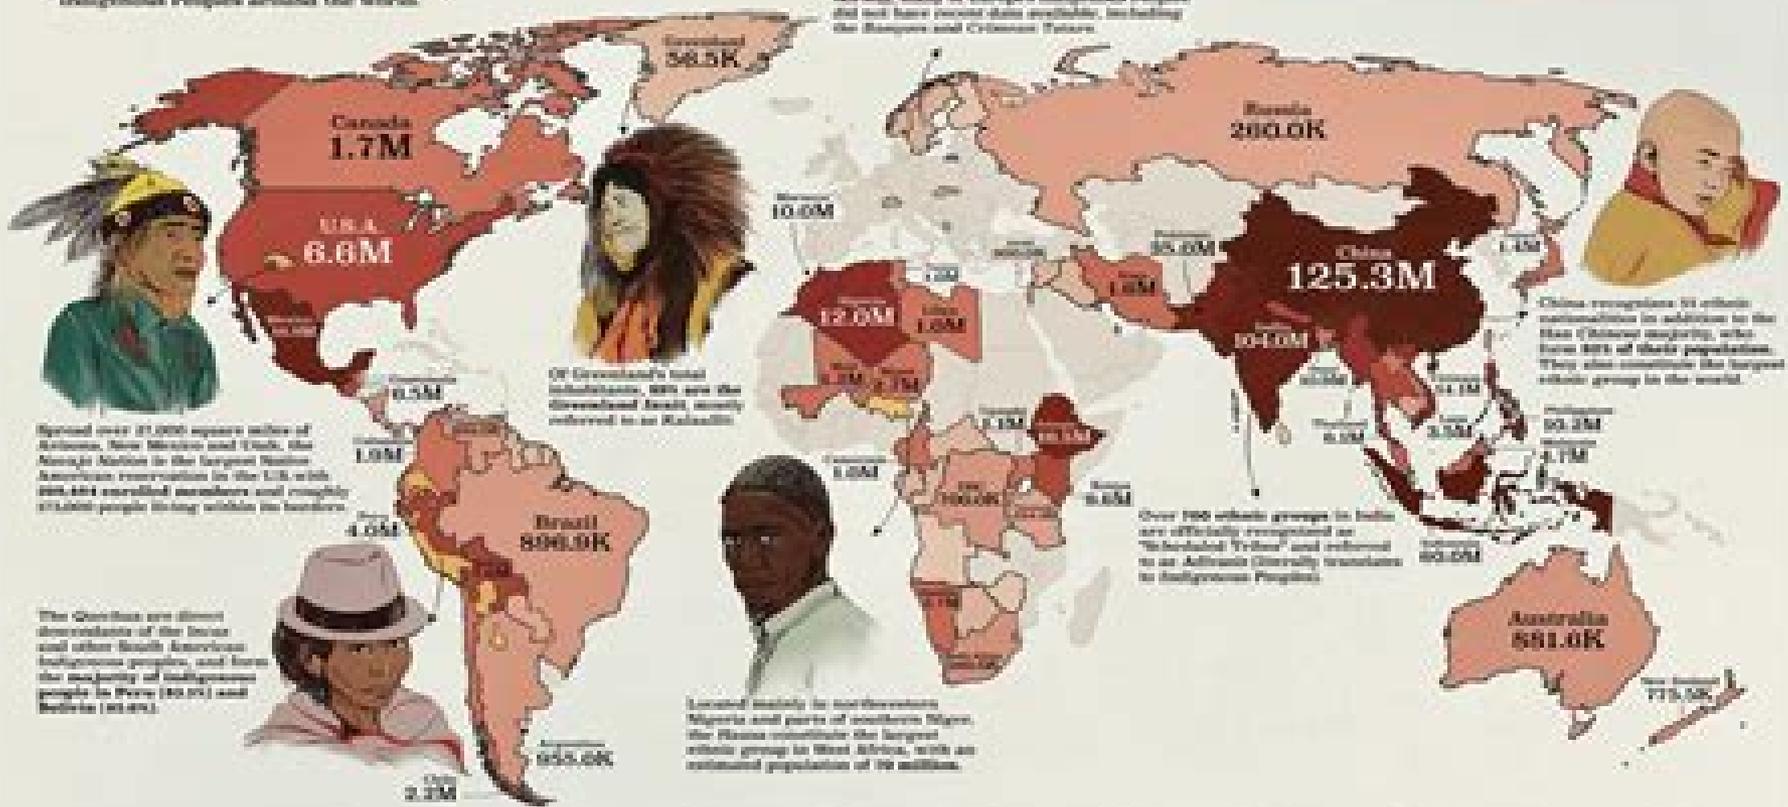

'Indigenous Peoples' has no official definition by the UN due to diverse identities and histories. Instead, organizations utilize a modern understanding of traits including self-identification, historical continuity with pre-settler societies, distinct systems and cultures, and a commitment to preserve heritage and environments.

Here's a look at the latest available population distribution of the estimated 470 million Indigenous Peoples around the world.

Indigenous Population by Country/Territory

Excludes the Sámi of Finland, Sweden and Norway, many of Europe's Indigenous Peoples did not have recent data available, including the Romany and Crimean Tatars.
