

Lord's Prayer

Forgive us our debts.

When we ask our Father to forgive our sins, God would be unjust to deny our request because he already condemned Jesus for our sin and promised to accept us as perfectly righteous (justified) in his sight based on Jesus' perfect righteousness.

Theology Of Prayer:

Prayer: A Guide for the Perplexed Ashley Cocksworth, 2018-07-12 Central to the Christian life is the practice of prayer. But what theologically speaking is going on when we pray? What does prayer have to do with religious belief and action? Does prayer make a difference? Prayer: A Guide for the Perplexed addresses these and other key questions regarding the Christian theology of prayer. Beginning with Evagrius of Ponticus's On Prayer, Ashley Cocksworth finds in this early document a profound expression of the integrity of the experience of prayer and theological thought. Seeking throughout to integrate systematic theology and the spirituality of prayer, individual chapters explore the meaning of some of the core doctrines of lived Christian faith: the Trinity, creation, providence, and the Christian life as they relate to the practice of prayer. Complete with an annotated bibliography of sources on prayer to promote further reading, this volume appeals to academics and general readers alike.

Prayer in the Trinity Ron Cole-Turner, 2016-12-12 A Christian view of prayer is founded on a unique insight: God is already communicating and inviting us to participate. Christ is already praying for us, and the Holy Spirit is already bringing our prayers to expression. Our prayers are a response, hearing what God is saying and daring to speak from our hearts. Prayer in the Trinity is an invitation to participate in the conversation of prayer. Most of us have trouble praying, and for a very good reason. We seem to know that theologically prayer is impossible. Who are we to talk to God? How can our words mean anything to God? All the great theologians of prayer have recognized this: We cannot pray. But God is already doing what we cannot do. And God is inviting us to participate. We cannot initiate prayer, but we can join in listening and responding to what God is already doing. The New Testament is very clear in saying that Jesus Christ prayed. More than that, he continues to pray for us even now, interceding on our behalf. On the basis of his prayers for us, our prayers for ourselves and for each other are lifted up and offered effectively on our behalf. Christ makes prayer possible. Likewise, the Holy Spirit intercedes for us, probing the depths of our hidden selves and raising our deep yearnings to awareness and expression. In the prayers of Christ and through the intercessions of the Spirit, God is already communicating, engaging us in what we experience as prayer. For this reason, we can see prayer as something that is already going on. It is not something we initiate. It is something we are invited to join.

Prayer in the Trinity explores at length the way the New Testament speaks of God and prayer. It draws on theologians from Origen to Moltmann, offering up an invitation to pray grounded in a distinctly Christian view of prayer.

The Soul of Prayer Peter Taylor Forsyth, 1951 Here is a no-nonsense theologian who goes for the jugular. In Forsyth's company, we are aware of both the glory and the gravity of what we are doing when we go to our knees in prayer.

Eugene H. Peterson P. T. Forsyth is sometimes described as an English precursor to Karl Barth. He was born in 1848 to a Scottish family of humble origins and later in life attended Aberdeen University, where he graduated with first-class honours in classical literature in 1869. In 1876, he was ordained and called to minister in Shipley, Yorkshire. In his early ministry in the Congregational Church, Forsyth fought orthodoxy and sought for the right to rethink Christian theology and pursue liberal thought In 1878 however Forsyth experienced a conversion from in his own words being a Christian to being a believer from a lover of love to an object of grace A profound awareness of pastoral responsibility was awakened which radically altered the the course of his ministry His conversion thrust him from the leadership of liberalism to a recovery of the theology of grace Quickly he became one of the better known figures in British Nonconformity In 1894 he received a call to Emmanuel College in Cambridge where he preached his famous sermon Holy Father in 1896 In 1901 he accepted a position as principal of Hackney Theological College London where he remained until he died in 1921 Over his lifetime Forsyth published 25 books and more than 260 articles He is often credited with recovering for his generation the reality and true dimensions of the grace of God

Talking to God Thomas L. Constable,2005-01-13 Why a theology of prayer Because counterfeit prayer abounds we need Scripture s guidance writes Thomas Constable Praying as God desires requires considering what God has revealed about it As we give prayer our careful attention we gain greater understanding of what he intends it to be Constable details the different forms of communication God invites us to use He identifies the counterfeits that pass for prayer discusses the conditional nature of prayer and explains why some prayers seem to go unanswered

The Theology of Prayer Monsignor Joseph Fenton,2008-05-05 What is prayer What part of us prays What is the cause of prayer and what is the effect of prayer Is prayer necessary Who can pray Pray to whom Pray for what Spiritual benefits temporal benefits How should we pray On what conditions will our prayer be heard Petition or worship The prayer of Christ the prayer of the Church the prayer of the saints the prayer of the Holy Souls the prayer of individuals vocal prayer and mental prayer how do they differ and how do they relate What are the degrees of prayer How does prayer sanctify The foremost American theologian of the twentieth century gives the Catholic answers to all these questions and more in this invaluable work

Theology of Prayer Benjamin Morgan Palmer,1894 This little volume does not profess to be an exhaustive discussion of a subject which has so many sides as this of prayer But so far as known to the author there is no book which collects and refutes the various objections urged by different classes of sceptics Nor is there to be found anywhere a full articulation of prayer in the system of grace There seemed to be a gap here which ought to be filled which is all that this essay attempts
