

War Voices

A large field of red poppies stretches across the foreground and middle ground, leading to a flat horizon. The sky is filled with large, white, fluffy clouds against a pale blue background. The text 'War Voices' is centered in the upper half of the image, with a red shadow or reflection of the text appearing directly below it on the poppy field.

Women and Militant Wars Swati Parashar,2014-03-05 This book explores women's militant activities in insurgent wars and seeks to understand what women do in wars. In International Relations, inter-state conflict, anti-state armed insurgency, and armed militancy are essentially seen as wars where collective violence against civilians and security forces is used to achieve political objectives. Extending the notion of war as politics of injury to the armed militancy in Indian-administered Kashmir and the Tamil armed insurgency in Sri Lanka, this book explores how women participate in militant wars and how that politics not only shapes the gendered understandings of women's identities and bodies but is in turn shaped by them. The case studies discussed in the book offer new comparative insight into two different and most prevalent forms of insurgent wars today: religious-political and ethno-nationalist. Empirical analyses of women's roles in the Sri Lankan Tamil militant group the LTTE and the logistical-ideological support women provide to militant groups active in Indian-administered Kashmir suggest that these insurgent wars have their own gender dynamics in recruitment and operational strategies. Thus Women and Militant Wars provides an excellent insight into the gender politics of these insurgencies and women's roles and experiences within them. This book will be of much interest to students and scholars of critical war and security studies, feminist international relations, gender studies, terrorism and political violence, South Asia studies, and IR in general. Tell Me Lies David Miller,2003-11-20 Did the US and UK governments lie about weapons of mass destruction to promote an attack on Iraq? Did the media hold them to account or act as cheerleaders for war? Tell Me Lies reveals the systematic propaganda used by both the US and UK governments to convince us of the threat from Iraq. It shows how we were deliberately misled into a war that has resulted in a humanitarian disaster in Iraq and threatens to create further instability and resentment of the US and UK throughout the Middle East. Written by some of the world's leading journalists and commentators, it's a scathing indictment of the role of the mainstream media in legitimising government actions and undermining dissent. Critics, activists, and journalists from both sides of the Atlantic explore alternatives such as the internet and Al Jazeera and provide analysis and guidance on resisting the media war. Contributors include John Pilger, Noam Chomsky, Robert Fisk, Edward Herman, Mark Thomas, Mark Steel, and cartoonist Steve Bell, amongst many others. Global politics in the information age Mark J. Lacy, Peter Wilkin,2024-07-30 Global politics in the information age available in paperback for the first time presents a provocative and wide-ranging introduction to the notion that information technologies are creating new formations of power, control, and resistance across the planet. The essays, ranging from the language used by the Bush administration to shape the war on terror, to the attempts to control the circulation of informational products, to the strategies of media management deployed to shape how the war in Iraq during 2003 was presented in the public sphere, through to the attempts to brand economic globalisation and strategies of resistance developed by the anti-globalisation movement, unearth the new transformations that are unfolding in the twenty-first century. This collection of essays brings together academics working across the social sciences from International Relations, Political Economy, Sociology, and Media

Studies to provide the reader with a number of different perspectives on the way that flows of images capital ideologies and informational goods are creating global spaces of control and resistance The book seeks to rethink approaches to global politics that see information society as closing down spaces of resistance while at the same time exploring the new formations of power that informational society is making possible The book offers clearly explained theoretical insight into the debates that are shaping discussion on global politics and information society with case studies that will be of interest to the student seeking to make sense of the changes that are unfolding
