

A dirt road winds through a forest with autumn foliage. The trees are mostly bare, with some showing yellow and orange leaves. The road is light-colored and leads into the distance. The sky is overcast and grey.

We Cannot Live Without Our Lives:

Care Ethics and Art Jacqueline Millner, Gretchen Coombs, 2021-11-24 What would it mean to substitute care for economics as the central concern of politics This anthology invites analysis reflections and speculations on how contemporary artists and creative practitioners engage with interpret and enact care in practices which might forge an alternative ethics in the age of neoliberalism Interdisciplinary and innovative it brings together contributions from artists researchers and practitioners who creatively consider how care can be practised in a range of contexts including environmental ethics progressive pedagogies cultures of work alternative economic models death literacy advocacy parenting and mothering deep listening mental health disability and craftivism Care Ethics and Art contributes new modes of understanding these fields together with practical solutions and models of practice while also offering new ways to think about recent contemporary art and its social function The book will benefit scholars and postgraduate research students in the fields of art art history and theory visual cultures philosophy and gender studies as well as creative and arts practitioners

Gender Violence Laura L. O'Toole, Jessica R. Schiffman, Margie L. Kiter Edwards, 2007-08 The approach of the year 2000 has made the study of apocalyptic movements trendy But groups anticipating the end of the world will continue to predict Armageddon even after the calendar clicks to triple 0s A Doomsday Reader brings together pronouncements edicts and scriptures written by prominent apocalyptic movements from a wide range of traditions and ideologies to offer an exceptional look into their belief systems Focused on attaining paradise millenarianism often anticipates great cosmic change While most think of religious belief as motivating such fervor Daniels comparative approach encompasses secular movements such as environmentalism and the Montana Freeman and argues that such groups are often more political than religious in nature The book includes documents from groups such as the Branch Davidians the Order of the Solar Temple Heaven s Gate and white supremacists Each document is preceded by a substantive introduction placing the movement and its beliefs in context This important overview of contemporary politics of the End will remain a valuable resource long after the year 2000 has come and gone

Remaking Radicalism Dan Berger, Emily K. Hobson, 2020-10-01 This book brings together documents from multiple radical movements in the recent United States from 1973 through 2001 These years are typically viewed as an era of neoliberalism dominated by conservative retrenchment the intensified programs of privatization and incarceration dramatic cuts to social welfare and the undermining of labor antiracist and feminist advances Yet activists from the period proved tenacious in the face of upheaval resourceful in creating new tactics and dedicated to learning from one another Persistent and resolute activists did more than just keep radical legacies alive They remade radicalism bridging differences of identity and ideology often assumed to cleave movements grappling with the eradication of liberal promises and turning to movement cultures as the source of a just future Remaking Radicalism is the first anthology of U S radicalisms that reveals the depth diversity and staying power of social movements after the close of the long 1960s Editors Dan Berger and Emily Hobson track the history of popular struggles during a time that spans the presidencies of Richard Nixon and George W Bush and bring to readers the political upheavals that shaped the end of the century and that continue to define the present

Routledge Revivals: God, Literature and Process Thought (2002) Darren Middleton, 2018-02-01 Originally published in 2002 God Literature and Process Thought looks at the use of God in writing as a part of the creative advance immersed in the processes of reality and affected by events in the world This edited collection outlines and promotes the novel view that there is much to be gained when those who value the insights of process thought encounter the many and varied writers of literature and literary theory It also celebrates the notion of process poesis a fresh way of reflecting theologically and philosophically that takes account of literary forms and promises to transform creatively the very structure of process thought today

We Cannot Live Without Our Lives Barbara Deming, 1974 Activist writer Deming reveals her deeply personal struggles as she confronts today's problems the Vietnam war racial inequality the never ending battle of women against oppression and her special experience as a lesbian jacket blurb

The Key, 1928

Fed Up Gemma Hartley, 2018-11-13 A bold dive into the emotional labor women have shouldered for far too long and an impassioned vision for creating a better future for us all Day in day out women anticipate and manage the needs of others In relationships we initiate the hard conversations At home we shoulder the mental load required to keep our households running At work we moderate our tone explaining patiently and speaking softly In the world we step gingerly to keep ourselves safe We do this largely invisible draining work whether we want to or not and we never clock out No wonder women everywhere are overtaxed exhausted and simply fed up In her ultra viral article Women Aren't Nags We're Just Fed Up shared by millions of readers Gemma Hartley gave much needed voice to the frustration and anger experienced by countless women Now in Fed Up Hartley expands outward from the everyday frustrations of performing thankless emotional labor to illuminate how the expectation to do this work in all arenas private and public fuels gender inequality limits our opportunities steals our time and adversely affects the quality of our lives More than just name the problem though Hartley teases apart the cultural messaging that has led us here and asks how we can shift the load Rejecting easy solutions that don't ultimately move the needle Hartley offers a nuanced insightful guide to striking real balance for true partnership in every aspect of our lives Reframing emotional labor not as a problem to be overcome but as a genderless virtue men and women can all learn to channel in our quest to make a better more egalitarian world Fed Up is surprising intelligent and empathetic essential reading for every woman who has had enough with feeling fed up
