Baudelaire and Delacroix Mallarme and Picasso Sartre and Djuna Barnes Miller and Nin Vietnamese and African refugees revolutions and Bohemia This tale of the Creative Now is told through the fine tuned sensibility of Etel Adnan the expatriate poet painter who knows the French Capital as wholly as she does Beirut and San Francisco her other homes She is also the author of SITT MARIE ROSE an underground novel of the Lebanese Civil War and many books of poetry Her new work is a philosophically charged lyric in prose The elan vital of every word evokes the eternal present of this wise woman A highly personal life enhancing masterpiece in a deathly age of impersonality An indispensable book by an indispensable writer

Morgan Gibson The Road to Feminism Muná Fayyāḍ,1987 The works of a number of women writers in the last 20 years in the Arab world have displayed a tendency towards feminism writing negatively of the situation of women in Arab society and attempting to create heroines that break away from the old molds in which society had cast them Starting with Mary Daly s definition of the metapatriarchal journey the article traces the path that five major Arab women writers take on their way to feminism Nawal el Saadaw Ilfa al Idilbi Qamar Kaylani Ghada al Samman and Etel Adnan The paper posits three stages in the realization of the Self and explores how each writer passes through these stages Using this schema the author realizes that none of these writers except Ghada al Samman could be said to have successfully reached the last stage and while acknowledging their contribution argues that all five writers lack the presentation of a positive alternative to present as a model to the female reader who is looking to them for guidance in breaking away from patriarchal restraints
