Population Policies for a New Economic Era Lester Russell Brown, 1983 After a generation of unprecedented economic growth the world economy appears to be losing momentum Double digit inflation high interest rates and soaring deficits are often cited as causes of the global economic slowdown but these are more symptom than cause More fundamental is the depletion of the global resource base that allowed the economy to triple during the century's quarter This depletion of renewable and nonrenewable resources is undermining the long term potential for rapid sustained economic growth Oil played a central role in the century s third quarter economic boom In addition to making overall growth easy cheap oil revolutionized agriculture by spawning spectacular gains in food output However growth in oil production and other basic economic activities has declined because of rising oil prices deteriorating biological systems or both As the world population moves toward 5 billion humanity is moving into uncharted territory The relationship between population size and the sustainable yield of the earth s biological resource systems is uncertain With the progressive depletion of readily accessible oil and gas reserves and the widespread deterioration of the economy s biological support systems economic growth has slowed markedly These economic trends call for dramatic shifts in population policy to avoid declines in consumption levels JN Altering the Earth's Chemistry Sandra Postel,1986 Human activities that have altered the earth s chemistry are discussed in terms of their potential ecological and economic consequences Humanity s impact on the disruption of the natural cycles of carbon nitrogen and sulfur is assessed Data are presented which illustrate the extent of change in these cycles Risks particularly threatening and costly to society are identified as those associated with food security forests and human health Each of these risk areas are explained and specific problems and conditions are highlighted Strategies of minimizing risks through measures that remedy several problems simultaneously are advocated Recommended actions include 1 reduction of fossil fuel use 2 support of new energy technologies 3 establishment of standards for residential appliances 4 increase of recycling efforts 5 preservation of forests and planting of trees 6 elimination of lead in gasoline 7 more extensive toxicity testing 8 use of an integrative pest management program and 9 detoxification of wastes Because of the global nature of these risks international co operation and active collaboration efforts to explore policy options are urged ML Renewable Energy Cynthia Pollock Shea,1988 This document presents the position that renewable energy sources offer a timely alternative to dwindling oil supplies and to environmentally damaging coal combustion although public support and financial backing need to be strengthened An expanded use of renewables and a greater commitment to energy efficiency are the most cost effective and environmentally sound approaches to mitigating many seemingly intractable problems The booklet contains specific sections on 1 harnessing the power of water 2 new uses of biomass 3 power from the sun 4 tapping the energy of the wind 5 laying the institutional groundwork for a shift to using more renewables and 6 increasing the overall energy contribution available for renewables TW Space, the High Frontier in Perspective Daniel Deudney,1982 This paper examines how the exploration of space has affected life on earth Examined are milestones in space war or peace in space learning about earth from space the satellite communications revolution space industrialization and the ownership of space The real beginning of the Space Age was the October 1957 Soviet launch of a 184 pound satellite into orbit The United States put an object into orbit in January 1958 The Soviet Union has taken an important lead in internationalizing access to space by sending Cuban East European French and Mongolian cosmonauts into space The current projects of the U S and Soviet programs the space shuttle and the space station are perfect complements The superpowers have begun a race for the first time to place weapons of destruction in orbit Space militarization is being aggressively promoted by both countries The most valuable contribution space activities have made is the information they have provided about the universe and about the earth For example scientists are learning how the atmosphere oceans sunlight and life forms interact to make the planet habitable and how human actions are altering those systems The biggest scientific advances have been in astronomy and related sciences As a result of the satellite communications revolution satellite TV broadcasts are bringing cultural interactions that for the first time begin to match the scale of the world s economical and political interdependencies Disputes regarding the ownership of space are beginning to emerge RM Microelectronics at Work Colin Norman,1980 Research paper surveying recent trends in the development and application of microelectronics technology and the concomittant implications for employment and re industrialization policy in both the UK and developing countries estimates the impact of technological change on jobs working conditions of office workers and industrial workers productivity factory organization etc References
