

Modelling Belief Dynamics

For a computer scientist the ultimate solution to the problem about belief revision is to develop algorithms for computing appropriate revision and contraction functions for an arbitrary belief system.

(Peter Gärdenfors)

The following considerations concern modelling Belief Dynamics (BD) not just in the sense of a formalization, but rather in the sense of building a computational model and implementing the corresponding data structures and algorithms of recomputing beliefs. The purpose of such a project is to illustrate some ideas about belief changes in a Web of Beliefs (WoB) to explore and deepen one's understanding of belief changes by trying to implement or improve corresponding algorithms. With implementation one will proceed from more basic models, which make a lot of simplifications, to more extended models, which look more at internal belief structure and employ more refined algorithms.

capacities of agents being able to represent their environments. E cognition set AI and robotics in a new direction in which intelligent machines are required to interact with the environment and where this interaction does not reduce to explicit representations or prespecified algorithms. These ideas revolutionized the way we think about intelligent machines and cognition but these theoretical advances are only partially reflected in modern approaches to AI and machine learning ML. Despite deeply impressive achievements AI ML still struggles to recapitulate the kinds of intelligence we find in natural systems whether we are considering individual insects e.g. simultaneous localization and mapping or swarm behaviour e.g. foraging sensing and ensemble inferences and especially the kinds of flexibility and high level reasoning characteristic of human cognition.
