The Russian Version of the Second World War : the History of the War as Taught to Russian Graham Lyons,1976

Teaching Students About War James Powles,2021-05-30 The Soviet regime instituted a system of primary and secondary schooling and operated virtually all the schools in Russia The author has taken the two main textbooks used in the senior forms of Russian secondary schools and here presents in direct translation the story of the War as seen through Russian eyes Anyone remotely familiar with history as taught on the western side of the Iron Curtain will read with bemused fascination of the real origins of the Second World War of the true meaning of the Russo German Non Aggression Pact of why the Russians stopped before Warsaw and so on and so on But why indeed should one version be any more true than the other This fascinating book not only presents the other side of the coin but poses the much deeper question of the true meaning of the evidently much abused word history

Parallel Realities in Russian and Ukrainian Contemporary Cinema Tetyana Shlikhar,2025-09-30 This book examines Russian and Ukrainian feature films to trace the roots and consequences of the Russian invasion of Ukraine It argues that the cultural war stems from a colonial past where Russia viewed Ukraine as an inferior little brother By examining cinematic representations of the countries shared history this book reveals how Russia has used cinema to promote a strong unified state and patriotic narratives while Ukrainian cinema seeks to overcome colonial trauma and build a distinct national identity It also investigates how cultural memories of Kyivan Rus the Cossacks World War II the Soviet past and the Russian war in Ukraine are depicted differently in Russian and Ukrainian cinema
