Theological Imagination Constructing The Concept Of God:

The Theological Imagination Gordon D. Kaufman,1981-01-01 In this challenging work Gordon Kaufman asserts that the prime task of theology is the imaginative construction of the doctrine of God Kaufman maintains that both the absoluteness of the divinity and our own necessity demand that we construct the doctrine of God critically and in a manner appropriate to our own time and place In thorough examinations of God and theology Christ and christology and of the ultimate foundations of religious thought he shows how this construction can be accomplished faithfully and in full realization of our own humanity The Theological Imagination Constructing the Concept of God Gordon D. Kaufmann,1951

Constructing Moral Concepts of God in a Global Age Myriam Renaud,2022-07-29 Constructing Moral Concepts of God in a Global Age focuses on what people say and think about God rather than on arguments about God s existence It advances a theological method or step by step approach to explore and reframe personal convictions about God and the worldviews shaped by those convictions Since a moral God is more likely to foster a moral life this method integrates an ethical check to ensure that understandings of God and their associated worldviews are validly moral The proposed method builds on the work of twentieth century theologian Gordon Kaufman during the Kantian phase of his work It anticipates a person like God who hears prayers loves without end and comforts in times of hardship To accommodate today s pluralistic and globalized world the ethical check integrated in the method is a widely collaborative and vetted global ethic the Parliament of the World s Religions Declaration Towards a Global Ethic This volume of constructive philosophical theology is written for seminary students educators clergy study groups and anyone interested in delving more deeply and systematically into understandings of God whether their own or those of others The Making of American Liberal Theology Gary J.

Dorrien,2006-01-01 In this first of three volumes Dorrien identifies the indigenous roots of American liberal theology and demonstrates a wider longer running tradition than has been thought The tradition took shape in the nineteenth century motivated by a desire to map a modernist third way between orthodoxy and rationalistic deism atheism It is defined by its openness to modern intellectual inquiry its commitment to the authority of individual reason and experience its conception of Christianity as an ethical way of life and its commitment to make Christianity credible and socially relevant to modern people Dorrien takes a narrative approach and provides a biographical reading of important religious thinkers of the time including William E Channing Ralph Waldo Emerson Horace Bushnell Henry Ward Beecher Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Charles Briggs Dorrien notes that although liberal theology moved into elite academic institutions its conceptual foundations were laid in the pulpit rather than the classroom Imaginatively Constructing God Concepts Glenda Hildebrand,Institute for Christian Studies,1988-01-01

Divine Revelation and Human Practice Rev. Dr. Tony Clark,2008-01-01 In this creative contribution to the doctrine of revelation Clark seeks to develop and articulate an understanding of God s self disclosure located in the participation of the ecclesial community in the trinitarian life of God Clark takes as his point of departure Karl Barth's doctrine of the Word of God Barth has impressed upon theology that revelation is primarily an event in which God establishes relationship with humanity in an act of his sovereign freedom. But what is the role of human participation in this revelatory event? It is here that Barth's account is less than satisfactory and this shortcoming points to the principal theme of the book. Addressing this theme, Clark engages with the work of Michael Polanyi whose philosophy provides a potent resource for the task. One profoundly innovative aspect of Polanyi's work is his theory of tacit knowledge which demonstrates how articulate knowledge, conceptual understanding, arises out of knowledge established through practical and intrinsically imaginative participation in particular practices or life ways. Although we depend upon such knowledge, we can articulate it only in part. We know more than we can tell. This insight has profound implications for the doctrine of revelation. It suggests that knowledge of God is necessarily bound up with the various practices of the church in which Christians are imaginatively engaged and through which God makes himself known. It also suggests that such knowledge cannot be fully articulated. Clark does not deny the possibility or the importance of doctrinal formulation but he does issue a reminder that theological statements are only possible because God gives himself to be known in the life and practices of the church. This substantial work provides important and original proposals for rearticulating the doctrine of revelation.

All God's Creatures Daniel P. Horan, 2020-07-07. The predominant stewardship model of creation is the result of an intentional effort to correct approaches that reinforce human sovereignty and the resulting environmental degradation. However, as All God's Creatures argues, the stewardship model actually does not offer a correction but rather reinscribes many of the very same pitfalls. After close analysis of the stewardship model, this book identifies scriptural, theological, and philosophical sources to support the adoption of a community of creation paradigm. Drawing on postcolonial theory, this book proposes the concept of planetarity as a framework for conceiving the relationship between human and nonhuman creation and the Creator in a new way. This theoretical framework is grounded by a retrieval of the medieval Franciscan theological and philosophical tradition. The result is what can be called a postcolonial Franciscan theology of creation, imagined in terms of planetarity, providing a constructive and nonanthropocentric response to the need for a new conceptualization of the doctrine of creation.

New Essays in Religious Naturalism Creighton Peden, Larry E. Axel, 1993. The essays in this volume were selected from those presented at a Conference on American Religious Thought sponsored by the Highlands Institute for American Religious Thought at Highlands, North Carolina. The Highlands Institute is a community of productive scholars with diverse theological and philosophical perspectives. The Institute contributes to the academic study of religion through interpretive, critical, and constructive reflections whose principal focus is on distinctively American religious thought. It fosters broad discussion of relevant options through its sponsorship of conferences, seminars, workshops, and publications. The work of the Institute emphasizes:

1. the interface between theology and philosophy, especially where theological efforts have utilized the American philosophical tradition;
2. the history and development of liberal religious thought in America;
3. themes pertinent to the
