Abstract

The article formulates the main principle of physics, which underlies this science. This principle has been called by the author of this article the Principle of differentiation into physical and mathematical theories. The article gives examples of the application of this principle in quantum mechanics and cosmology. A more detailed proof of the principle of equivalence of the electromagnetic field and the field of strong interaction to a free material particle is given. This principle, formulated in the article "Electrodynamics in Curvilinear Coordinates and the Equation of a Geodesic Line", revealed the nature of the mass of elementary particles and became the basis for the formulation of the Principle of differentiation into physical and mathematical theories.

1. Introduction

The Principle of differentiation into physical and mathematical theories is formulated as follows. Physics considers only objects that really exist in nature. They are called physical objects. These are objects that can be observed experimentally. Theories constructed using only physical objects are physical theories. Objects that do not exist in nature and underlie the theories that use the mathematical apparatus are mathematical objects. Theories constructed using mathematical objects are mathematical theories.

An example of an object that does not exist in nature is the ether. Michelson's experiment, the appearance in physics of the concept of the electromagnetic field as a real physical object and the creation of the theory of relativity by Einstein—all this showed that the ether does not exist in nature.
