Collection Gertrude Borghero, Sammlung Thyssen-Bornemisza,1981 The Thyssen Bornemisza Collection has so far been the work of two generations It was begun in the nineteen twenties by Baron Heinrich Thyssen Bornemisza 1875 1947 whose intention was to create a panorama of European painting from the fourteenth to the eighteenth century by means of works of prime significance He acquired the Villa Favorita in 1932 and between 1932 and 1937 had the gallery constructed In this way the collection which until then had been housed in Hungary received its present setting After his demise his son Baron Hans Heinrich Thyssen Bornemisza the present proprietor opened the gallery to the public at Easter 1948 He then set about the task of completing his father s collection as well as expanding it to include sectors previously excluded such as European and American painting of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Foreword p 9 Thyssen-Bornemisza Collection.

name Manet often evokes the provocative heroically scaled pictures he painted in the 1860s for the Salon but in the late

Women Patrons and Collectors Andrea M. Gáldy, 2011-10-18 In looking at the history of collecting one may be excused for regarding it as an activity in which traditionally women have shown little interest or in which they have not been involved As the present volume shows women particularly aristocratic women not only resisted this discrimination through the ages but also built important collections and used them to their own advantage in order to make statements about their lineage power cultural heritage or religious preferences That is not to say that there was not an increasing number of middle class women who became draughtswomen painters and natural scientists and who found it equally beneficial for their chosen profession to collect In every case the female collector chose to collect and what to collect she chose how and where to present the collection and she also decided when to dispose of objects thereby occasionally taking on a curatorial role Women have been seen as gatherers of furnishings jewellery dress and objects of domestic life This third volume in the Collecting it thus seeks to give a voice to a group of important female collectors from the sixteenth to the early nineteenth century whose importance for the history of collecting has not yet or not sufficiently been acknowledged
