War Of The Warramullas:

War of the Warramullas Michael Terry, 1975 War of the Warramullas Michael Terry, 1928 Outline of events leading up to outbreak of hostilities against white settlers 1928 Lander River area scarcity of settlers brief references to sporadic violence since 1910 Death of F Brown attack on R Stafford recorded dog poisoning by natives Morton attacked

Resourceful Reading Katherine Bode, Professor Robert Dixon, 2010-01-11 This collection provides the first comprehensive account of eResearch and the new empiricism as they are transforming the field of Australian literary studies in the twenty first century

In Search of the Never-Never Ann McGrath, 2019-04-09 Mickey Dewar made a profound contribution to the history of the Northern Territory which she performed across many genres She produced high quality memorable and multi sensory histories including the Cyclone Tracy exhibition at the Museum and Art Gallery of the Northern Territory and the reinterpretation of Fannie Bay Gaol Informed by a great love of books her passion for history was infectious As well as offering three original chapters that appraise her work this edited volume republishes her first book In Search of the Never Never In Dewar s comprehensive and incisive appraisal of the literature of the Northern Territory she provides brilliant often amusing insights into the ever changing representations of a region that has featured so large in the Australian popular imagination

Aboriginal Dreaming Paths and Trading Routes Dr Dale Kerwin, 2011-12-07 Highlights the contribution Aboriginal people made in assisting European explorers surveyors and stockmen to open the country for colonisation and explores the interface between Aboriginal possession of the Australian continent and European colonisation and appropriation

Lifeworlds Michael Jackson, 2012-11-22 Michael Jackson s Lifeworlds is a masterful collection of essays the culmination of a career aimed at understanding the relationship between anthropology and philosophy Seeking the truths that are found in the interstices between examiner and examined world and word and body and mind and taking inspiration from James Dewey Arendt Husserl Sartre Camus and especially Merleau Ponty Jackson creates in these chapters a distinctive anthropological pursuit of existential inquiry More important he buttresses this philosophical approach with committed empirical research Traveling from the Kuranko in Sierra Leone to the Maori in New Zealand to the Warlpiri in Australia Jackson argues that anthropological subjects continually negotiate imaginatively practically and politically their relations with the forces surrounding them and the resources they find in themselves or in solidarity with significant others At the same time that they mirror facets of the larger world they also help shape it Stitching the themes peoples and locales of these essays into a sustained argument for a philosophical anthropology that focuses on the places between Jackson offers a pragmatic understanding of how people act to make their lives more viable to grasp the elusive to counteract external powers and to turn abstract possibilities into embodied truths

Aboriginal Environmental Knowledge Catherine Laudine, 2016-09-17 Whilst there are popular ideas about which champion Aboriginal environmental knowledge many of these are based more on romantic notions than on any detailed understanding of what might be the content of this knowledge This book is based on a grounded and broad assessment of less well known details of Aboriginal knowledge and provides both a great deal of detail and a new assessment of rituals and practices Aboriginal environmental knowledge is examined here as an integrated source of both religious and scientific knowledge An important finding is that Aboriginal environmental knowledge also includes knowledge about education for attitudes considered appropriate for survival Though evidence for this is readily available in the literature it has not been part of current depictions of Aboriginal environmental knowledge

A Country in Mind Saskia Beudel, 2013-11-01 After a period of loss and much change Saskia Beudel began walking Within eighteen months she had walked in the Snowy Mountains twice along the south west coast of Tasmania the MacDonnell Ranges west of Alice Springs the Arnhem Land plateau in Kakadu the Wollemi National Park in New South Wales and in Ladakh in the Himalayas But she kept returning to the glowing ochre gorges of central Australia The book that emerged tells stories from Australia's desert heart examines the entanglement of Aboriginal and European cultures remembers POW camps in Indonesia during World War II and relives childhood epiphanies in a haunting collection of landscapes while tracing family secrets across the globe Saskia Beudel powerfully captures the enigmas of displacement belonging and the intricacies often strikingly at odds with one another of Aboriginal and settler understandings of the desert environment

The Accidental Anthropologist Michael Jackson, 2013-12-16 Journeys through the Congo Sierra Leone and Outback Australia in an inventive memoir by a Commonwealth Poetry Prize winning ethnographer The Accidental Anthropologist is a fascinating impeccably written memoir or more accurately a series of fragments Compelling and absorbing as well as intense and insightful Jackson writes a far from classically autobiographical text There is nothing predictable about the mode or incidents he has chosen to write about this is literary memoir at its best and most inventive Jackson has a fascination with the concept of personal metamorphosis the idea that a life can be dismantled and reassembled in a different country and set of relationships And throughout the story the author makes a pretty good fist of living the theory Jackson's experiences begin with his earnest portrayal of young adulthood in Wellington where he associates on the fringes with many of the literary figures of the early 1960s Bob Lowry Fleur Adcock James K Baxter R A K Mason and the artist McCahon Jackson finds himself homeless in London where he's drawn to help the poor and eventually finds his way to Cambridge where he stumbles upon anthropology His subsequent ethnographic fieldwork takes him to the Congo Sierra Leone and outback Australia Jackson makes it clear that our lives are barely our own they belong as much to the people the landscapes the influences of thought and ideology that absorb us He excels at the intensely personal and captivates with this masterful work The Accidental Anthropologist is a challenging and magnificent memoir much of it is spellbinding astute and disquieting

Who's who, 1975 APAIS, Australian Public Affairs Information Service, 1962 Connection and Disconnection Tony Austin, Suzanne Parry, 1998 Connection and Disconnection brings together twelve historians with an interest in encounters between Indigenous people and settlers in the Northern Territory More than just a narrative of conflict and dispossession the volume is concerned to reconceptualise the present through the past rather than just understand the past itself Chapters deal with a range of encounters which bring new light to bear on the relationships between people on the northern frontier some of them positive The volume includes new interpretations of sites of dispossession and war together with accounts of the sometimes successful struggle by settlers to develop an understanding of Aboriginal people and cultures well meaning but frequently misguided attempts to provide for the welfare of Aboriginal people and usually unsuccessful efforts by authorities to divest the people of their Aboriginality The book will be of interest to all readers seeking to understand the circumstances that have made reconciliation such a key issue in our national identity as we approach the new millennium
