My Spoken Words Rahimah S. Phillips, 2022-08-05 She had just turned fifty years young and was having the time of her life She felt like she was living her best life She looked good and felt great Then things changed real quick She was scheduled for a colonoscopy but could never seem to get to the doctor's office early enough She didn't want to take a day off work Not for this Maybe if she had things would have been different Throughout this collection of poetry Rahimah shares her feelings of living with a death sentence As she struggles to survive and find ways to cope with a life threatening illness she uses poetry to help describe her feelings and express her thoughts Then just when things were starting to get better came this horrible disease called COVID 19 Then there were so many more emotions Mixed emotions Confined to her home Rahimah began to watch the news Although some people came together they remained apart As Rahimah prayed for the struggles to end she saw people killing and being killed There were people who did not believe in unity equality equity and dignity As her words hit the paper and she spoke into her cell phone her poetry came alive Rahimah began to capture other people s emotions and incorporated them into her poetry She continued to listen She continued to live She continued to breathe without ease She continued to yearn She continued to learn Rahimah s poetry expresses feelings of faith hope courage determination and strength And with the belief that a picture is worth a thousand words Fred R Barnard Rahimah captures poetry in motion and uses vibrant pictures to continue expressing other feelings such as love joy peace happiness and pride during challenging times

Everyday Surveillance William G. Staples,2013-10-18 When we think of surveillance in our society we usually imagine Big Brother scenarios with the government tracking our every move The actual surveillance of our everyday lives is much more subtle however and may be more insidious William G Staples shows how our lives are tracked by both public and private organizations sometimes with our consent and sometimes without through our internet use cell phones public video cameras credit cards license plates shopping habits and more Everyday Surveillance is a provocative exploration of the myriad ways we are watched each day and how this surveillance shapes our lives Thoroughly revised the second edition considers new topics such as the rise of social media and updates research throughout Everyday Surveillance introduces students to concepts of social control and incites classroom discussion about how surveillance impacts the ways we understand people and our lives at home work school or in the community

Regression Periods in Human Infancy Mikael Heimann,Frans X. Plooij,2003-10-17 Regression periods play a central role in the psychological development of the human baby Studies of infants have identified 10 periods of regression or a return to a high frequency of mother infant contact within the first 20 months of life These periods of emotional insecurity in the child signal forthcoming periods of developmental advance and the emergence of an array of new skills as a consequence of parent infant conflict over body contact and the renegotiation of old privileges Although the basic idea in this book is an old one the authors believe that regression periods deserve further study and have identified four questions of central importance today Can the phenomenon of regression periods as found by Dutch researchers in 1992 be replicated in other countries and cultures What environmental conditions have an effect on these regression periods and how Are there physical conditions in infants that show a non linear distribution over age similar to regression periods Have brain changes been detected since the review of Fischer Rose 1994 at other ages than the six reported by them and if yes how do these relate to the ages at which regression periods are found Forming the core of this book the replication studies performed in Sweden Spain and England provide support that regression periods are a reliable phenomenon and should be dealt with accordingly whenever developmental processes in infancy are discussed Cleveland Engineering Cleveland Engineering Society,1918 Harper's New Monthly Magazine ,1877 The National Provisioner ,1923 Everyland ,1918 The Spectator ,1925 Quest George Robert Stow Mead,1910 The Smart Set George Jean Nathan, Henry Louis Mencken,1912 Three Little Women Gabrielle Emilie Jackson,1913 A Book of Lullabies ,1925 The Lullaby Book; Or, Mothers' Love Songs ,1921 A Dream of the Centuries and Other Entertainments for Parlor and Hall George Bradford Bartlett,1889 Dictionary of American Biography ,1928 The Sunset ,1923
