Across the world education for thinking is seen as the key to thriving in an increasingly complex, globalised technological world. Questions explored throughout this edited volume include: what is thinking? how can thinking be taught? what does better thinking mean and how can we know it if we see it? what is the impact on wider society when thinking is taught in the classroom? Extensively researched and at the cutting edge of this field, this book provides the context for teaching thinking that researchers, teachers, and policy makers need.
