Writing Southern History:

Writing Southern History Arthur Stanley Link, Rembert Wallace Patrick, 1967 Reading Southern History Glenn Feldman, 2001-10-09 This collection of essays examines the contributions of some of the most notable interpreters of American southern history and culture The volume includes 18 chapters on such notable historians as John Hope Franklin Anne Firor Scott and W J Cash Southern History across the Color Line, Second Edition Nell Irvin Painter, 2021-02-17 The color line once all too solid in southern public life still exists in the study of southern history As distinguished historian Nell Irvin Painter notes we often still write about the South as though people of different races occupied entirely different spheres In truth although blacks and whites were expected to remain in their assigned places in the southern social hierarchy throughout the nineteenth century and much of the twentieth century their lives were thoroughly entangled In this powerful collection of pathbreaking essays Painter reaches across the color line to examine how race gender class and individual subjectivity shaped the lives of black and white women and men in the nineteenth and twentieth century South She explores such themes as interracial sex white supremacy and the physical and psychological violence of slavery using insights gleaned from psychology and feminist social science as well as social cultural and intellectual history The book illustrates both the breadth of Painter s interests and the originality of her intellectual contributions This edition features refreshed essays and a new preface that sheds light on the development of Painter s thought and our continued struggles with racism in the twenty first century

Writing Southern History Arthur Stanley Link, Rembert Wallace Patrick, 1965 Shapers of Southern History John

B. Boles, 2004 This volume gathers personal recollections by fifteen eminent historians of the American South Coming from distinctive backgrounds traveling diverse career paths and practicing different kinds of history the contributors exemplify the field's richness on many levels As they reflect on why they joined the profession and chose their particular research specialties these historians write eloquently of family and upbringing teachers and mentors defining events and serendipitous opportunities The struggle for civil rights was the defining experience for several contributors Peter H Wood remembers how black fans of the St Louis Cardinals erupted in applause for the Dodgers Jackie Robinson I realized for the first time writes Wood that there must be something even bigger than hometown loyalties dividing Americans Gender equality is another frequent concern in the essays Anne Firor Scott tells of her advisor's ridicule when childbirth twice delayed Scott's dissertation With great effort I managed to write two chapters but Professor Handlin was moved to inquire whether I planned to have a baby every chapter Yet another prominent theme is the reconciliation of the professional and the personal as when Bill C Malone traces his scholarly interests back to the memories of growing up poor on an East Texas cotton farm and finding escape and diversion in the sounds of hillbilly music Always candid and often witty each essay is a road map through the intellectual terrain of southern history as practiced during the last half of the twentieth century The Historian Behind the History Megan L. Bever, Scott A. Suarez, 2014-11-15 The Historian behind the History is a collection of ten fascinating interviews with southern historians who offer insights into their individual career paths and into the work of professional historians Autobiographical Reflections on Southern Religious History John B. Boles, 2001 Invoking the strong ties they sense between the courses of their lives and their careers the sixteen historians of religion who have contributed to Autobiographical Reflections on Southern Religious History share their thoughts and motivations In these highly personal essays both pioneering and promising young scholars discuss their work and interests as they recall how the circumstances of their upbringing and education steered them toward religious history They tell of their own time and place and of their growing awareness of how religion ties into larger social issues gender class and most notably race Indeed one essay begins I was asked to write about why I came to study religion in the South It was then I realized that it was because my grandfather had been lynched Lutheran Jewish Catholic Methodist and Episcopal viewpoints are represented as of course are Baptist Some contributors have stood in the pulpit others at least commenced their higher education with that aim While some contributors were born and reared and now work in the Bible Belt others are outsiders physically philosophically or both Some came from intellectual traditions others were the first in their family to attend college Despite their common interest in its history southern religion is anything but an intellectual abstraction for the contributors to this book It is a potent force and here sixteen men and women offer themselves as proof of its power to shape lives Publications of the Southern History Association Southern History Association, 1900 Includes reports of the annual meetings Harvard Guide to American History Frank Freidel, Frank Burt Freidel, Richard K.
