To All Generations

Judd E. Hollander

To All Generations:

Engage All Generations Cory Seibel, 2021-06-01 Engage All Generations suggests how every church can build on its potential and become a more vibrant witness of God's Kingdom. Divided into three sections, the book focuses on key growth edges in the unfolding conversation about intergenerational ministry: Learning and Growing Together, Praying and Playing Together, and Leading and Changing Together. Practical, accessible, encouraging, and thought-provoking, this book provides the crucial next building block in our understanding of intergenerational ministry. It is sure to benefit congregations already engaged in fostering intergenerational approaches and those desiring to experiment with becoming intentionally intergenerational.

A Teacher for All Generations Eric Farrel Mason, 2011-10-28 This collection of essays honors James C. VanderKam on the occasion of his sixty-fifth birthday and twentieth year on the faculty of the University of Notre Dame. An international group of scholars, including peers specializing in Second Temple Judaism and Biblical Studies, colleagues past and present, and former students, offers essays that interact in various ways with ideas and themes important in VanderKam's own work. The collection is divided into five sections spanning two volumes. The first volume includes essays on the Hebrew Bible and ancient Near East, along with studies on Qumran and the Dead Sea Scrolls. Essays in the second volume address topics in early Judaism, Enoch traditions, Jubilees, and the New Testament and early Christianity.

Living for the Future Rachel Muers, 2008-10-01 Our relationship to future generations raises fundamental issues for ethical thought to which a Christian theological response is both possible and significant. A relationship to future generations is implicitly central to many of today's most public controversies over environmental protection, genetic research, and the purpose of education, to name a few, but it has received little explicit or extended consideration. In Living for the Future, Rachel Muers argues and seeks to demonstrate that to consider future generations as ethically significant is not simply to extend an existing ethical framework but to rethink how ethics is done. Doing intergenerationally responsible theology and ethics means paying attention to how people are formed as theological and ethical reasoners, how social practices of deliberation about the good are maintained and developed, and how all of this relates to an understanding of the world as the sphere of God's transforming action. In other words, an intergenerationally responsible theological ethics will pay attention to the ethics and the spirituality of ethics itself. Her account of the ethical relation to future generations centres on three key concepts: choosing life, seeing Deut 30:19, keeping the sources open, and sustaining fruitful contexts. These concepts are developed theologically and in engagement with extra-theological conversations on intergenerational responsibility. She shows how they take up and move beyond concerns expressed in those conversations for survival, for the right distribution of resources, and for the maintenance of human values.

In the Image of God Shirley Mayhood,2022-05-02 We were created in the image of our Creator It was a perfect and loving relationship but when Adam and Eve chose evil over that relationship with their Creator that image of God we were created with was lost to us In our world today many Christians are more attuned to the world than to God s Word Many seem to have the attitude that because they are in the world they must be like the world But this world is not anything like God and Christians need to come to the certain knowledge that they are in the world but not of the world We as God s kids are not to live in the image of a lost world careening into a dark and bottomless pit of pure evil Jesus Christ became our atoning sacrifice so that you and I can return to that original image of God that we were created to be This ought to be our goal in life to be like God to do our very best to live in the image of God This book is a daily devotional of biblical attitudes characteristics of Jesus Christ the deep meaning and example of God s amazing precepts and loving actions God gave us a book to show us His right and loving law but when Jesus came He condensed all of the Father s law into just two Jesus said to him You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart with all your soul and with all your mind This is the first and great commandment And the second is like it You shall love your neighbor as yourself On these two commandments hang all the Law and the Prophets Matthew 22 37 40 It is my sincere hope that this book of devotions will help all who read it to know God better to love Him more and to understand what the true image of God means 451
