An Inquiry Into the Nature of Sleep and Death Alexander Philip Wilson Philip,1834 Describes the neurological aspect of sleep the functions of the nervous system and death Sleep, Death, and Rebirth Zvi Ish-Shalom,2021-08-17 In the sixteenth century the famous kabbalist Isaac Luria transmitted a secret trove of highly complex mystical practices to a select groups of students These meditations were designed to capitalize on sleep and death states in order to effectively split one s soul into multiple parts and which when properly performed permitted the adept to free oneself from the cycle of rebirth Through an in depth analysis of these contemplative practices within the broader context of Lurianic literature Zvi Ish Shalom guides us on a penetrating scholarly journey into a realm of mystical teachings and practices never before available in English illuminating a radically monistic vision of reality at the heart of Kabbalistic metaphysics and practice

Leary,2020 Sleep is a non negotiable requirement for a happy healthy life In the last 70 years our understanding of sleep has grown exponentially However in our busy society sleep is often overlooked and undervalued This is surprising given that sleep disorders and sleep dysregulation have been linked to multiple systemic and brain based diseases including cardiovascular disease type 2 diabetes dementia and major depressive disorder Additionally sleep disorders and sleep characteristics e g sleep duration have been linked to higher rates of mortality Despite the emerging evidence of a sleep mortality association the mechanisms underlying the relationship are not well understood Little is known about how the proportion of time spent in each sleep stage relate to timing or cause of death This dissertation is an in depth investigation of the relationship between rapid eye movement REM sleep and risk of mortality Specific aim one combines traditional and machine learning analytic approaches to evaluate whether lower levels of REM sleep would be associated with an increased rate of mortality Sleep is comprised of multiple sleep stages that by nature are highly correlated Therefore it is necessary to tease apart whether another sleep stage could be a better predictor of mortality Aim two used supervised machine learning to rank the four sleep stages from most to least predictive in context of one another The hypotheses were increased mortality rates would be associated with lower quantities of REM sleep and that compared to other sleep stages REM would be the best predictor of mortality Specific aim three was to evaluate the validity consistency and generalizability of the findings to do this the final models were validated in two independent cohorts and the results from all three cohorts were combined in a meta analysis Abstract shortened by ProQuest Treasury of Wisdom, Wit and Humor, Odd Comparisons and Proverbs ,1891 The Eclectic Magazine of Foreign Literature, Science, and Art ,1859
