Sleepy Places:

Sleepy Places Judy Hindley, 2006 Three yawning nodding and flopping children explore the best places for both animals and people to take a nap or go to sleep at night Sleepy Faces in Sleeping Places Laura K. Runion, 2012-06 I wrote this book because I wanted children to enjoy reading about sleeping animals and listening to the rhymes This book is factual because the ways and places in which animals sleep are accurate Hopefully children will be stimulated to inquire about other aspects of the animals habits and habitats Sleepy Faces in Sleeping Places makes an excellent bedtime story Midnight Meditations Courtney E. Ackerman, 2021-06-08 Stop chasing sleep and start welcoming rest with these 150 peaceful nighttime meditations to make falling back to sleep easier than ever There s nothing worse than waking up in the middle of the night and being unable to fall back asleep Now with Midnight Meditations you can be gently guided back to sleep faster than ever These 150 peaceful soothing meditations help you welcome and embrace the rest relaxation and restorative sleep every night has to offer With these simple guided meditations you can tune out distractions that hinder your rest and tap into the tranquility of the night In Midnight Meditations you will discover how to calm your racing thoughts stop chasing sleep and start receiving an undisturbed night s rest so you can make the most of your days A Place on the Corner Elijah Anderson, 1981-02-15 Urban ethnography about a shifting collection of black men who come together more or less regularly at a barroom liquor store in the ghetto Chicago s South Side Cover The Origin and History of Irish Names of Places Patrick Weston Joyce, 1875 The famous places of England Roderick Lawson, 1898 Carrol's Conversion Helen Van-Anderson, 1904 The Bookman , 1923 Making Place Stephan Feuchtwang, 2004 To make a place is to create a location where its creators can feel they belong Processes of place making are still very much ongoing today Geographers sociologists political scientists and philosophers of advanced capitalism have said that place is a localisation of the global However the creation of a place is not legible from such grand perspectives It is also much more creative than can be predicted by translating large scale processes into local cultures Anthropologists have been sensitive to the intimate tragic and lyrical senses of local place But their theorising has been too much bound up with cosmology and insufficiently with the intermediate scales of state and local state In this book Stephan Feuchtwang and his contributors offer a set of historical anthropological and scale mediated studies from China a country that includes a subcontinental variety of cultures and landscapes In the twentieth century it experienced collapse in civil war and was then reasserted as a particularly strong state Now it is managing the fastest growing capitalist economy in the world These intriguing Chinese studies contribute to the anthropology of place and space providing an historical perspective on processes of change and of accommodation to disruption The stories they tell are fascinating in their own right but in addition the result is a critical reformulation of previous theories of place that geographers philosophers historians and anthropologists will find of great interest The Book of Chicago Robert Shackleton, 1920 In his facile chatty way the author tells of the city s marvelous growth taking us from the Loop through that Olympus of Chicago the Lake Shore Drive to Oak Park and South Chicago The landmarks of the early settlers and the beauty spots of the modern city are all described in such a manner that they cannot fail to appeal to even the most conservative of Easterners Mr Shackleton in all his books of the cities shows each one distinctly its characteristics institutions literary traditions landmarks and its people Nothing is too small for him to chronicle their habits of speech their eating ancestor worship In each city he manages to discover many odd corners not found by the usual sightseer His is a sympathetic clear eyed often humorous interpretation of the city in each case
