

The Evolution of Scientific Discoveries Throughout History

1543

Polish astronomer Nicolaus Copernicus published his groundbreaking work "On the Revolutions of the Heavenly Spheres," which presented the idea that the Earth and other planets revolved around the sun.

1859

Charles Darwin published "On the Origin of Species," which introduced the theory of evolution and revolutionized our understanding of biology and the natural world.

1969

The U.S. had successfully landed astronauts on the moon as part of the Apollo 11 mission. This was marked as a major milestone in space exploration and human achievement.

600 BCE

The first recorded scientific experiment was conducted by the ancient Greek philosopher Thales in 600 BCE, who observed that a piece of amber rubbed against fur could attract lightweight objects.

1687

English scientist Sir Isaac Newton published his laws of motion and universal gravitation, which explained the fundamental principles of physics and laid the foundation for modern mechanics.

1905

Albert Einstein published his special theory of relativity, which described the relationship between space, time, and energy and led to the development of nuclear energy and atomic bombs.

Social Change And Scientific Progress

Richard Tracy LaPiere

Social Change And Scientific Progress:

Lonergan, Social Transformation, and Sustainable Human Development Joseph Ogbonnaya, 2013-01-29 Secular contemporary development discourse deals with the problems of societal development and transformation by prioritizing the human good in terms of vital and social values with the aim of providing the basic necessities of life through social institutions that work. While such an approach is profitable by promoting economic growth it does not take note of other dynamics of social progress and development. Also it fails to notice the consequences of development strategies on human flourishing, well being and happiness. Ogbonnaya argues for an integral approach to development by engaging in a fruitful dialogue between Bernard Lonergan's philosophical anthropology with contemporary development discourse as represented in select theories of development and in select principles of Catholic social teaching. It makes a case for social progress and transformation as emanating from human understanding. Also it highlights the parts of Lonergan's theory that contribute to an understanding specifically of his treatment of bias and of the shorter and longer cycles of societal decline. In view of the reality of moral impotence and limitations it considers the reversal of societal decline as possible through the supernatural solution of God's grace.

PERSPECTIVES ON EDUCATION, SOCIETY, AND HUMAN DEVELOPMENT: AN INTEGRATED APPROACH Dr. Moomin Jan, Dr. Pranay Pandey, Devaki V, Dr. Saqueba Shahi, 2025-11-05 Education, society and human development form a dynamic triad that defines the trajectory of human civilization. This book Perspectives on Education, Society and Human Development: An Integrated Approach explores this intricate relationship, emphasizing the transformative role of education in nurturing holistic growth and sustainable social progress. In today's interconnected world where globalization, technological advancement and cultural transitions shape every sphere of human life, there is a pressing need to re-envision education as an integrated and human-centered process rather than a purely institutional or academic pursuit.

The Human Meaning of Social Change Angus and Converse, Philip E. Campbell, Angus Campbell, Philip E. Converse, 1972-03-30 This book is a companion piece to Sheldon and Moore's Indicators of Social Change. Whereas Indicators of Social Change was concerned with various kinds of hard data, typically sociostructural, this book is devoted chiefly to so-called softer data of a more social psychological sort: the attitudes, expectations, aspirations and values of the American population. The book deals with the meaning of change from two points of view. First, it is interested in the human meaning which people attribute to the complex social environment in which they find themselves: their understanding of group relations, the political process and the consumer economy in which they participate. Secondly, it discusses the impact that the various alternatives offered by the environment have on the nature of their lives and the fulfillment of those lives. The twelve essays which make up the volume deal successively with the major domains of life. Each author sets forth an inclusive statement of the most significant dimensions of psychological change in a specific area of life to review the state of present information and to project the measurements needed to improve understanding of these changes in the future.
