Handbook of Crime Correlates Lee Ellis, Kevin M. Beaver, John Wright, 2009-05-07 Over the past two centuries many aspects of criminal behavior have been investigated Finding this information and making sense of it all is difficult when many studies would appear to offer contradictory findings The Handbook of Crime Correlates collects in one source the summary analysis of crime research worldwide It provides over 400 tables that divide crime research into nine broad categories Pervasiveness and intra offending relationships Demographic factors Ecological and macroeconomic factors Family and peer factors Institutional factors Behavioral and personality factors Cognitive factors Biological factors Crime victimization and fear of crime Within these broad categories tables identify regions of the world and how separate variables are or are not positively or negatively associated with criminal behavior Criminal behavior is broken down into separate offending categories of violent crime property crime drug offenses sex offenses delinquency general and adult offenses and recidivism Accompanying each table is a description of what each table indicates in terms of the positive or negative association of specific variables with specific types of crime by region This book should serve as a valuable resource for criminal justice personnel and academics in the social and life sciences interested in criminal behavior Clinical Handbook of Psychological Disorders, Fourth Edition David H. Barlow, 2007-11-15 With over 75 000 copies sold this clinical guide and widely adopted text presents authoritative guidelines for treating frequently encountered adult disorders The Handbook is unique in its focus on evidence based practice and its attention to the most pressing question asked by students and practitioners How do I do it Leading clinical researchers provide essential background knowledge on each problem describe the conceptual and empirical bases of their respective approaches and illustrate the nuts and bolts of evidence based assessment and intervention Journal of Indian Psychology ,2003 Circadian Impact of Psychosocial Factors in Depression Patricia Lynn Haynes, 2003 Severe life events increase the risk for major depression and depression is associated with disrupted sleep However the impact of life stress on sleep has not been explored in individuals with unipolar depression

This project examined the proposed association between stressful life events and sleep using the social rhythm hypothesis of depression. Specifically, I tested whether participants with depression when compared to normal controls have a less stable social rhythms i.e. less consistent daily routines that are more reactive to life stress b. a greater disruption of daily sleep and activity following life stress c. greater reactivity of sleep and daytime activity to disrupted social rhythms d. less light exposure disrupted sleep and increased daytime motor activity. Thirty nine normal controls and 39 depressed individuals participated in the study. Over the course of two weeks project staff gathered actigraphic estimates of motor activity and light exposure prospective daily measures of social interactions and interview information about life events occurring in the previous 4 months. Data were analyzed by logistic and linear regression techniques. Results demonstrated that the presence of an event hypothesized to disrupt social rhythms in the last four months correlated with disrupted sleep continuity in depressed individuals but not in normal controls. In depressed individuals only decreased sleep continuity was associated with fewer daily structured activities especially those activities with others actively involved. Individuals experiencing decreased sleep continuity low daytime light exposure high in bed nighttime light exposure and a later activity acrophase had an increased likelihood of being depressed. In addition individuals with more variable routines characterized by less active involvement with others were likely to be depressed. These findings are consistent with the proposed model in that individuals with depression experience more sleep disruption in response to life stress than non depressed individuals. At the same time daily routine does not appear to mediate the relationship between life stress and sleep. Future studies are needed to determine whether this sensitivity to life stress precedes the development of depression thereby indicating a potential risk factor or etiological mechanism in the development of this disorder.
