

What is formative feedback?

Formative feedback is feedback given to students during the learning process.

- give evidence of where the learner is up their (strengths) and areas for improvement to the individual learner often
- explain the activity and learning goal
- give students an idea of how the teacher can help progress towards that goal

Formative feedback should be given regularly and often by the teacher or peer and self

Formative feedback should be given at the appropriate time - activities should be given to the learners while they are still open to the feedback

Formative feedback should be given in a way that is specific and helpful for the learner to improve their learning

How might formative feedback be delivered?

Formative feedback types to deliver

When teachers

- typically give after the completion of the task
- take the form of comments or praise

When the teacher has been observed by a peer or other professional against the established learning criteria

When feedback comes from the form of a checklist or the parent, especially in the home, usually has to represent the parent's view

When using self-feedback it is important to provide the feedback to the learner in real time and direct to the point

Effective feedback should be given in a timely, clear, and specific way
