Impact Evaluation of Quality Management in Higher Education Theodor Leiber,2020-06-29 This volume works towards overcoming the lack of systematic impact evaluation in higher education particularly analyses which are not restricted to ex post gathered data and expert assessments Since higher education is more important than ever in knowledge societies high priority should be ascribed to quality management QM in higher education institutions HEIs Consequently impact evaluation of QM effectiveness is indispensable because it generates the knowledge required for quality management improvement. The introductory chapter elucidates the motivation and objective of impact analyses of QM in HEIs and provides an overview of the volume's other contributions. One chapter reflects on success factors and unintended effects of QM while another one analyses more discursive ways of evidence-informed guidance of QM policies which are complementary to rigorous impact studies. Five chapters investigate QM effectiveness in HEIs by ex post and simultaneous impact evaluation in European case studies including assessments of students, teachers, quality managers and institutional leadership. The case studies comprise universities from Germany, Spain, Finland and Romania. The final chapter reports a SWOT analysis of impact evaluation of QM in HEIs which is suggested as a tool for bridging the notorious gap between the demanding methodology of impact evaluation and its proper implementation. This book was originally published as a special issue of the European Journal of Higher Education.

Neuropsychiatric symptoms and cognitive impairment

Ioannis Liampas, Efthimios Dardiotis, Vasileios Siokas, Robert Fleischmann, 2025-10-21

Neuropsychiatric symptoms (NPSs) include but are not limited to psychotic and affective symptoms, agitation, disinhibition, apathy, aberrant motor behavior, appetite and sleep disorders. In older adults, NPSs confer an increased risk towards incident dementia. Moreover, they are related to poorer quality of life, greater dependence and caregiver burden, increased economic and social costs, as well as accelerated courses of cognitive and functional decline. Still in older adults, NPSs often go unnoticed for long periods while even after their identification, they are arguably challenging to manage. Standard therapeutic approaches such as pharmaceutical interventions and psychotherapy are either detrimental to cognition themselves (e.g. benzodiazepines and antipsychotics) or simply fail to alter the course of cognitive decline. This Research Topic aims to explore the associations between NPSs and cognitive impairment in older adults. Although NPSs have been related to steeper cognitive decline, it is not clear whether particular NPSs are associated with impairment in specific cognitive domains. The mapping of the exact correspondence between NPSs and affected cognitive functions could however be very useful in everyday clinical practice and dementia research. This knowledge could enhance the understanding of the neurobiological basis of NPSs, facilitate the earlier identification of cognitive impairment through more targeted clinical assessments in individuals with specific NPSs, as well as enable the earlier implementation of cognitive interventions aiming at the fortification of specific cognitive functions in individuals with specific NPSs to preclude or slow down the anticipated course of cognitive decline. We welcome any types of manuscripts supported by the Journal: original research articles, brief research articles, community case studies, narrative reviews, mini reviews, systematic reviews and meta-analyses pertaining but not limited to the following themes: The neuropsychological profile and cognitive trajectories of older adults with neuropsychiatric symptoms; The functional status and trajectories of older adults with neuropsychiatric symptoms The association of neuropsychiatric symptoms with incident Alzheimer s and non Alzheimer s dementia Independent determinants of cognitive decline and incident dementia in older adults with neuropsychiatric symptoms The management of neuropsychiatric symptoms in cognitively impaired and unimpaired older adults The prevention and management of cognitive decline in older individuals with neuropsychiatric symptoms
