

The Dynamics of Masters Literature

Early Chinese Thought from Confucius to Han Feizi

Wiebke Denecke

1.1 THE MASTER SAID:

"To learn something and then to put it into practice at the right time is this not a joy? To have friends coming from a distance is this not a delight? Not to be upset when one's reputation is ignored is this not the mark of a gentleman?"

THE MASTER YOU SAID: "A man who has his parents and would hardly be able to do so."

Studies in Chinese Thought Arthur F. Wright, 1953      Studies in Chinese Thought Derk Bodde, 1953      Studies in Chinese Philosophy and Philosophical Literature Angus Charles Graham, 1990-01-01 Graham addresses several fundamental problems in classical Chinese philosophy and in the nature and structure of the classical Chinese language These inquiries and reflections are both broad based and detailed Two sources of continuity bring these seemingly disparate parts into a coherent and intelligible whole First Graham addresses that set of fundamental philosophical questions that have been the focus of dispute in the tradition and that have defined its character What is the nature of human nature What can we through linguistic and philosophical scrutiny discover about the date and composition of some of the major texts What sense can we make of the Kung sun Lung sophistries A second source of coherence is Graham s identification and articulation of those basic and often unconscious presuppositions that ground our own tradition By so doing he enables readers to break free from the limits of their own conceptual universe and to explore in the Chinese experience a profoundly different world view
