The ceiling and walls are adorned with complex geometric and floral patterns. A prominent feature is a large, multi-lobed archway in the foreground, leading to a darker, recessed area. Studies In Islamic Painting:

Studies in Islamic Painting, Epigraphy and Decorative Arts Bernard O'Kane, 2021-08-29 This lavishly illustrated volume with many of the 300 photographs being published in colour for the first time features 19 articles by Bernard O Kane on a wealth of topics in medieval Islamic art O Kane examines controversial subjects such as the Siyah Qalam album paintings and major masterpieces of both Arab and Persian illustrated manuscripts He analyses Egyptian and Iranian examples of decorative arts including woodwork textiles ceramics and metalwork from large scale minbars to ivory boxes And he explores epigraphic developments in Persian and Arabic from the 10th to the 15th centuries in Egypt and Iran

Studies in the Islamic Arts of the Book Robert Hillenbrand, 2012-12-31 The studies collected in this volume some of them rather difficult of access date mostly from the last fifteen years and focus primarily on Persian book painting of the 14th to the early 16th centuries In this period Iran dominated the art of book painting in the Islamic world The articles reprinted here examine various aspects of this the golden age of Persian painting They range from the period of Mongol rule when the impact of Far Eastern themes and modes radically transformed the heritage bequeathed to Iran by Arab painting a textbook case of the clash of civilisations to the dawn of the modern era and the swansong of the classical style of Persian painting under the early Safavids Yet other articles focus on the roots of book painting in the themes and styles developed in painted ceramics on medieval Qur'anic calligraphy on bookbinding and on the remarkably original variations played on the hitherto hackneyed theme of the figural frontispiece by Arab painters Two major leitmotifs are explored in this selection of essays One is provided by the constantly varying interpretations of the Shahnama The Book of Kings the Persian national epic and especially the tendency of painters to interpret this familiar text in terms of contemporary politics The other is the interplay of text and image which highlights the tendency of painters to strike out on their own and to leave the literal text progressively further behind while they develop plots and sub plots of their own These enquiries are set within the context of a concerted effort to explore in detail how Persian painters achieved their most spectacular visual effects In its combination of general surveys and closely focused analyses of individual manuscripts this collection of articles will be of interest to specialists in book painting and in Islamic art as a whole

Studies in Islamic Painting Ernst J. Grube, 1995 A collection of studies published over three decades which deal with the materials issues and problems of Islamic painting ranging from 10th century Egypt Ottoman Turkey to 19th century Persia

Studies in the Islamic Decorative Arts Robert Hillenbrand, 2019-12-31 Islamic artists channelled their energies not into easel painting and large scale sculpture but rather into what Western scholars obeying a very different hierarchy of art forms rather disparagingly term the decorative arts or even the minor arts In point of fact some of the greatest masterpieces of Islamic art are in the media of ceramics metalwork textiles ivory and glass Often the images they bear express a complex set of meanings for Islam inherited much material from the iconographic systems of earlier civilizations notably those of the ancient Near East and of the classical world Islam also developed its own distinctive vocabulary of signs and symbols Accordingly questions of iconography and meaning bulk large among the studies gathered together in the present volume These studies written over a period of almost thirty years and taken from a wide variety of published sources deal with aspects of the decorative arts from Spain to India and from the 7th to the 17th century They focus in turn upon ceramics and metalwork on coins carpets and calligraphy and on carving in wood and ivory They are arranged under three headings The first comprises general surveys of the field covering the content of these arts and confronting the challenges they present such as the Islamic approach to three dimensional sculpture The second deals with questions of iconography and meaning while the third comprises a series of studies devoted to specific media such as ivory woodwork and numismatics This volume therefore offers not only a general introduction to some of the problems posed by Islamic art but also readings of key objects in an attempt to explore their meaning and finally an in depth focus on individual objects representing specific genres and media

Studies in Islamic and Later Indian Art from the Arthur M. Sackler Museum, Harvard University Art Museums Arthur M. Sackler Museum, Rochelle L. Kessler, 2002 This volume examines portraits of Mughal rulers Iranian drawing and painting and Samanid epigraphic pottery of medieval Iran and Central Asia

Further Studies in Islamic Painting Ernst Grube, 2000 Short description A collection of Professor Grube's essays on the painting of the late 14th and 15th century in the Timurid empire and that of Ottoman Turkey This is a new revised edition of the 1968 exhibition catalogue The Classical Style of Islamic Painting which has substantially widened its focus and time span Long description The studies by Ernst Grube collected and reprinted in this volume are concerned with two aspects of painting in the Muslim world that of the late 14th and 15th century in the Timurid empire and that of Ottoman Turkey The focal point of this volume is the new edition of the 1968 exhibition catalogue The Classical Style in Islamic Painting this was a study on the origin of Timurid painting and its impact on other royal painting ateliers in the rest of the Muslim world At that date the author was of the opinion that the style developed in the atelier of Baysunghur Mirza ibn Shah Rukh Timur's grandson and one of the great bibliophiles of the age was considered a classical achievement by his contemporaries and the princely bibliophiles of the next two generations Its apparent perfection led these princes and their artists to emulate its qualities and mannerisms for over two centuries Written as a catalogue accompanying an exhibition at the Pierpont Morgan Library in New York in 1968 the selection of works was restrained both by the limits of material then available and by the fact that relatively little was then known about the bibliophile endeavours of Baysunghur's cousin Iskandar Sultan ibn Umar Shaykh As we know now Iskandar matched and exceeded in many ways the achievements of Baysunghur laying the foundation upon which much of what Baysunghur achieved was based Taking full advantage of the materials from Iskandar's atelier which have now become available in research over the last thirty years the original text of The Classical Style has been rewritten No longer restrained by the framework of an exhibition it has been largely illustrated with new material While the original concept remains basically unaltered his new study shifts the focus slightly taking into account the earlier sources that illuminate the bibliophile achievement of the period As The Classical Style in Islamic Painting has been out of print for over 25 years this updated version should be particularly welcome A second major study included in this volume does focus on Baysunghur examining two manuscripts of the renowned stories of the two jackals Kalilah and Dimnah at the court of the Lion King they were made for the prince within two years of each other All the paintings in these exquisite codices are illustrated a comparison between what would appear to be a pre Baysunghur version with that made in the prince s own atelier leads to new insights into the problems that still surround the history of painting in that period A third study tackles the extraordinary set of paintings probably produced in the late 19th century that are based on Baysunghur s famous Shah namah completed in Herat in 1431 Lastly the studies dealing with Ottoman Turkish painting range from problems of the identification of the earliest Ottoman style at the end of the 15th century to the reaction of the Ottoman world to the Kalilah wa Dimnah stories and the realistic contemporary interpretation of the ancient tradition of Firdausi s Shah namah

Islamic Visual Culture, 1100-1800 Oleg Grabar, 2024-08-01 Islamic Visual Culture 1100 1800 is the second in a set of four volumes of studies on Islamic art by Oleg Grabar Between them they bring together more than eighty articles studies and essays work spanning half a century by a master of the field Each volume takes a particular section of the topic the three other volumes being entitled Early Islamic Art 650 1100 Islamic Art and Beyond and Jerusalem Reflecting the many incidents of a long academic life they illustrate one scholar s attempt at making order and sense of 1400 years of artistic growth They deal with architecture painting objects iconography theories of art aesthetics and ornament and they seek to integrate our knowledge of Islamic art with Islamic culture and history as well as with the global concerns of the History of Art In addition to the articles selected each volume contains an introduction which describes often in highly personal ways the context in which Grabar s scholarship developed and the people who directed and mentored his efforts The focus of the present volume is on the key centuries the eleventh through fourteenth during which the main directions of traditional Islamic art were created and developed and for which classical approaches of the History of Art were adopted Manuscript illustrations and the arts of objects dominate the selection of articles but there are also forays into later times like Mughal India and into definitions of area and period styles as with the Mamluks in Egypt and the Ottomans or into parallels between Islamic and Christian medieval arts

Making of Islamic Art Robert Hillenbrand, 2021-06-01 In their own words Jonathan Bloom and Sheila Blair espouse things and thinginess rather than theories and isations This book s practical down to earth dimension expressed in plain simple English runs counter to the current fashion for theoretical explanations and their accompanying jargon when exploring the world of Islamic art Its many insights firmly anchored in artistic practice in architecture painting and the decorative arts are supported by ample technical know how The range is wide mosques becoming temples how religious buildings reflect politics Yemeni frescoes and inscriptions domestic Syrian 18th century ornament Egyptian bookbinding techniques recycling and

Grube, 1992 Islamic Art IV continues the tradition of earlier volumes in publishing lengthy well documented studies on little known or new material At the same time it lays special emphasis on the study of specific forms of Islamic art that have hitherto been neither truly understood nor properly interpreted Aspects of iconography be it objects and their forms and specific meanings be it the elements of painting and the illustrations of specific texts or the development of specific architectural features are a theme of all the studies published in this volume Perhaps most notable is a book length investigation of a vessel whose existence is attested in Iran from the 3rd millennium BC to the late 13th AH AD 19th century and whose ceremonial functions can be documented by the analysis of its varying forms and their inscribed and ornamental decoration considered in the light of contemporary written sources lexical Qur'anic and primarily poetry This study breaks much new ground and is undoubtedly among the most important pieces of research ever published in Islamic Art But each article in Volume IV presents not only a considerable amount of new material but significant new interpretation of this material making it essential reading for anyone working in the field of Islamic art
