Before You Study Theology Donald G. Luck, 2022-07-07 Donald Luck has spelled out an introduction to theology that is as engaging in its clarity as it is solid in its content In giving a lucid and broad review of how the nature and method of theology is understood in the Christian community he balances description with evaluation but in such a way that he does not dictate or prescribe Although he is careful to lay out the clear sometimes stark differences in the way Christians understand the task of interpreting the Bible he himself seeks a middle mediating way Luck insists that theologians must be able to show that the experience of Christian faith must be both practical and reasonable Paul F Knitter Xavier University Donald Luck thoughtfully confronts the articulated resistance of undergraduates seminarians and adult lay Christians to the disciplined study of theology Responding to their most common objections one by one Luck practices good pedagogy and systematically builds a persuasive case for studying theology on the grounds that the discipline exemplifies loving God with all one's mind He succeeds in the end in making it difficult if not impossible for students to resist his invitation to reflect critically and constructively on Christian faith Paula M Cooney Macalester College

Muller, 1991 The Study of Theology address two major concerns the place of biblical hermeneutics and practical theology The author discusses the hermeneutical implications of biblical historical systematic and practical theology and presents a case for the relationship between exegesis and the other theological disciplines However the relationship between hermeneutics and practical theology is also essential According to the author the traditional forms of theology and preaching frequently fail the tests of exegesis and contemporary theologizing while at the same time most contemporary theology and exegesis fails to address directly the needs of the church Muller presents a case for the structure of hermeneutics and argues that it is essential to the church because theological training as a whole ought to reflect the life of the church and be of value to the life of the church
