The Ming Tribute Grain System:

The Ming Tribute Grain System Ayao Hoshi, 1969 The Ming Tribute Grain System Bosji Ayao, 1969 The Ming Tribute Grain System. Translated by Mark Elvin Ayao Hoshi, 1969 China's Second Capital - Nanjing under the Ming, 1368-1644 Jun Fang, 2014-05-23 This book is a study of the dual capital system of Ming dynasty China 1368 1644 with a focus on the administrative functions of the auxiliary Southern Capital Nanjing It argues that the immense geographical expanse of the Chinese empire and the poor communication infrastructure of pre modern times necessitated the establishment of an additional capital administration for effective control of the Ming realm The existence of the Southern Capital which has been dismissed by scholars as redundant and insignificant was the author argues justified by its ability to assist the primary Northern Capital better control the southern part of the imperial land The practice of maintaining auxiliary capitals where the bureaucratic structures of the primary capital were replicated in varying degrees was a unique and valuable approach to effecting bureaucratic control over vast territory in pre modern conditions Nanjing translates into English as Southern Capital and Beijing as Northern Capital The Chinese Empire in Local Society Michael Szonyi, Shiyu Zhao, 2020-12-17 This book explores the Ming dynasty 1368 1644 military its impact on local society and its many legacies for Chinese society It is based on extensive original research by scholars using the methodology of historical anthropology an approach that has transformed the study of Chinese history by approaching the subject from the bottom up Its nine chapters each based on a different region of China examine the nature of Ming military institutions and their interaction with local social life over time Several chapters consider the distinctive role of imperial institutions in frontier areas and how they interacted with and affected non Han ethnic groups and ethnic identity Others discuss the long term legacy of Ming military institutions especially across the dynastic divide from Ming to Qing 1644 1912 and the implications of this for understanding more fully the nature of the Qing rule The Cambridge History of China Denis Crispin Twitchett, John King Fairbank, 1978 International scholars and sinologists discuss culture economic growth social change political processes and foreign influences in China since the earliest pre dynastic period The Pattern of the Chinese Past Mark Elvin, 1973 A satisfactory comprehensive history of the social and economic development of pre modern China the largest country in the world in terms of population and with a documentary record covering three millennia is still far from possible The present work is only an attempt to disengage the major themes that seem to be of relevance to our understanding of China today In particular this volume studies three questions Why did the Chinese Empire stay together when the Roman Empire and every other empire of antiquity of the middle ages ultimately collapsed What were the causes of the medieval revolution which made the Chinese economy after about 1100 the most advanced in the world And why did China after about 1350 fail to maintain her earlier pace of technological advance while still in many respects advancing economically The three sections of the book deal with these problems in turn but the division of a subject matter is to some extent only one of convenience These topics are so interrelated that in the last analysis none of them can be considered in isolation from the others
