The Sibyl Series of the Fifteenth Century Robin Raybould, 2016-10-18 Robin Raybould's The Sibyl Series of the Fifteenth Century examines the startling and sudden change that occurred in the representation of the sibyls throughout Europe during the early Renaissance Raybould describes how and why during this period the number names attributes and prophecies of these archaic prophetesses were selected and stabilized thus providing new witness to the Christian message in sharp contrast to earlier representations where the sibyls had played a minor role in the history of classical and Christian divination and prophecy The book examines all the fifteenth century instances of these series as well as the manuscripts which describe them identifies the origin of the sibylline prophecies and suggests reasons for the widespread popularity of this new artistic phenomenon

The Sibyl and Her Scribes Anke Holdenried, 2006 The Sibylla Tiburtina is a Latin prophecy attributed to a prophetess from classical antiquity It concludes with an account of the End of History involving the coming of Antichrist and his battle with a Last World Emperor Approximately 100 manuscripts written between the mid 11th and the 16th centuries survive which testify to the Tiburtina's immense popularity in the medieval West as such it is a key text for understanding medieval apocalypticism and occupies an important place in the intellectual history of the Middle Ages This book not only re-examines the Tiburtina as a vehicle for expressing contemporary political concerns triggered by crises thought to herald the End of the World but offers a new approach by placing it for the first time in the context of medieval traditions which saw Sibylline prophecy as independent non-Christian evidence of Christ's life and as confirmation of His divinity As is shown these traditions had a major impact on the reception of the Tiburtina The book concludes with a repertory of the manuscripts together with brief outlines of individual textual traditions as represented in groups of manuscripts which will constitute a valuable reference source for other scholars
