Sharks, Rays, and Chimaeras of California David Ebert,2003-05-08 Ebert has herein assembled an enormous body of knowledge about California s 43 shark species ranging from shark and human behavior to taxonomic minutiae along with up to date explanations of their ecology status and fisheries More importantly his Herculean effort includes the often overlooked 25 species of skates rays and chimaeras That along with the fine illustrations of Mat Squillante should answer any question that a student diver natural history buff or recreational or commercial fisher might ask John E McCosker coauthor of Great White Shark The timing of this publication is ideal given the status of some of California s elasmobranch populations and the need for a deeper understanding of their biology ecology and fishery management The book is a comprehensive treatment if one wants to find out the latest information on any species of shark or ray off California this is the place to go An outstanding work Gregor M Cailliet Professor Moss Landing Marine Laboratories and Director Pacific Shark Research Center

A Preliminary Evaluation of the Status of Shark Species José Ignacio Castro,Christa M. Woodley,Rebecca L. Brudek,Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1999 The status of shark species is reviewed based on the available data A review of the history of shark fisheries demonstrates that intensive shark fisheries are not sustainable Numerous problems are encountered in assessing shark populations a general lack of biological and fishery data lack of suitable models and lack of validated age estimates Sharks have an unusual combination of biological characteristics slow growth and delayed maturation long reproductive cycles low fecundity and long life spans These characteristics make them vulnerable to overfishing A preliminary evaluation of the status of shark species is made on the basis of historical data the reproductive potential of each species and the level of exploitation of the species In this document exploited shark species are classified numerically according to their vulnerability The majority of these species are listed as Category 1 indicating that there are not sufficient data to assess the species Available data indicate that sharks are very vulnerable and are threatened by overexploitation in many parts of the world
