Transport Investment And Economic Development:

Transport Investment and Economic Development David Banister, Joseph Berechman, 2003-08-29 A major concern of all decision makers has been to ensure that there are clear benefits from transport investment proposals The travel time savings are clear but the wider economic developments have presented enormous difficulty in terms of both theoretical arguments and empirical evidence This book reviews the history of the debate and argues that the agenda has changed These issues are presented together with a major analytical investigation of macroeconomic models evaluation in transport and microeconomic approaches The final part of the book presents a series of case studies for road rail and airport investment schemes particularly focusing on the economic development aspects

Transport Investment and Economic Development Gary Fromm, 1972 Transportation Investment and Economic Development Cletus C. Coughlin, Randall W. Eberts, Vincent Yao, 2010 The papers in this special issue of the Annals were first presented at the Transportation and Economic Development Conference held in Little Rock Arkansas in March of 2006 The conference was attended by officials from U S Department of Transportation agencies academic scholars and industry practitioners This is the second of two conferences organized by the Transportation Research Board TRB Committee on Transportation and Economic Development that focused on the interface between these two important issues The first conference held in Portland in 1998 focused on estimating and explaining the effect of transportation investment on economic development This responded to a burgeoning literature on the linkage between the two and the papers presented helped to sort out the complex interactions between transportation investment and economic development The second conference which is the topic of this volume revisited this interaction but also responded to the more demanding task of using these estimates to help make better policy and allocation decisions with respect to transportation investment As the nation's transportation system has matured and competition for government funds has intensified the issue is not simply whether transportation affects economic development The questions are more complex What mode of transportation is most cost effective in meeting a region's transportation needs How should a state department of transportation prioritize its transportation dollars to maximize economic growth What are the spillover effects of building highways in one state on the economic development activities in another What are the relative benefits of specific highway investment such as adding lanes building additional highway interchanges or improving median strips in divided highways Have tollways improved the efficiency of highways by reducing congestion Policy makers are demanding answers to these questions and the papers in this volume are an attempt to provide the framework if not the answer to these and other questions facing policy makers and practitioners ECMT Round Tables Transport and Economic Development European Conference of Ministers of Transport,2002-10-03 The linkage between transport and economic development is a highly contentious issue which has generated considerable debate and an abundant literature There is a firmly held belief among politicians that investment in transport infrastructure Transport Investment, Economic Development and Implementing the Regional Strategy London and South East Regional Planning Conference (SERPLAN) (GB),1991 Teaching Collection (Bartlett) ,2000 Transport Investment, Economic Development and Implementing the Regional Strategy SERPLAN.,1991 The links between transport investment and economic growth Adam Marshall,Chris Webber,2007 Impact of Transport Infrastructure Investment on Regional Development OECD,2002-05-23 This report describes evaluation methods for transport infrastructure investments to ensure that scarce resources are allocated in a way that maximises their net return to society Transportation Investment for Economic Development Frances D.
