Trauma-informed care (TIC) provides a framework for health care providers and institutions to decrease persistent traumatic stress responses in their patients. Benefits for providers and patients are powerful and far-reaching.

FOR PATIENTS

Offers the opportunity to engage more fully in their health care, develop a trusting relationship with their provider, resists re-traumatization, and improves long-term health outcomes.

FOR PROVIDERS

Helps reduce burnout among health care providers, potentially reducing staff turnover, and strengthens provider-patient alliance.

SAFETY

- Recognize presence of trauma symptoms or trauma history
- Allow patient to face doorway
- Always greet patient and family
- Make eye contact
- Ask if patient is aware of triggers
- Respect privacy

CHOICE

- Provide clear and appropriate message about rights and responsibilities
- Whenever possible, emphasize patient has choice and control
- Emphasize informed decisions
- Ask permission before touching patient or performing procedures

COLLABORATE

- Do things with, not for, the patient
- Share power by including patient in decision-making process
- Patient has significant role in planning and evaluating service
- Ask preferred name / pronouns
- Ask questions to assess symptoms of distress

TRUST

- Clearly and simply explain what you are about to do before you do it; be consistent
- Respectful and professional boundaries are maintained
- Respond calmly and non-judgmentally to strong emotion

EMPOWER

- Validate and affirm experience
- Provide education on patient condition and procedures
- Teach skills to manage pain and anxiety during procedure

Healing Developmental Trauma Laurence Heller, Ph.D.,Aline LaPierre, Psy.D.,2012-09-25 This well organized valuable guide draws from somatic based psychotherapy and neuroscience to offer clear guidance for coping with childhood trauma Peter Levine author of Waking the Tiger and In an Unspoken Voice Although it may seem that people suffer from an endless number of emotional problems and challenges Laurence Heller and Aline LaPierre maintain that most of these can be traced to five biologically based organizing principles the need for connection attunement trust autonomy and love sexuality They describe how early trauma impairs the capacity for connection to self and others and how the ensuing diminished aliveness is the hidden dimension that underlies most psychological and many physiological problems Heller and LaPierre introduce the NeuroAffective Relational Model NARM a method that integrates bottom up and top down approaches to regulate the nervous system and resolve distortions of identity such as low self esteem shame and chronic self judgment that are the outcome of developmental and relational trauma While not ignoring a person s past NARM emphasizes working in the present moment to focus on clients strengths resources and resiliency in order to integrate the experience of connection that sustains our physiology psychology and capacity for relationship Body and Sexuality Ecclesia of Women in Asia. Biennial Conference,Agnes M. Brazal,Andrea Lizares Si,2007 This collection of essays is a fruit of the 2004 conference of the ecclesia of Women in Asia EWA a forum of Catholic women doing theology in Asia P 4 of cover Self and Emotion ,1991 On Feminist Ethics and Politics Claudia Card,1999 For years mainstream feminist ethics focused criticism on male supremacy Feminist philosophers in this volume adopt a less male focused stance to look closely at oppression s impact on women s agency and on women s relations with women Examining legal social and physical relationships these philosophers confront moral ambiguity moral compromise and complicity in perpetuating oppression Combining personal experience with philosophical inquiry they vividly portray their daily engagement with oppression as both victims and perpetrators They explore such issues as how pornography silences women and radical feminist politics complicity in racism Among these insightful essays Sandra Bartky argues that women share guilt for racism when they benefit from it without protest Susan Brison reflects on uses of narrative in trauma recovery from such experiences as being targeted for rape or murder Joan Callahan examines fallout of derogatory speech directed at lesbians Virginia Held proposes carrying care into marketplaces and governments and in her introduction Claudia Card draws on Primo Levi s conception of gray zones in exploring dangers of character damage to victims of misogyny A fitting companion to Card s highly regarded Feminist Ethics this volume interweaves observations on character political ethics violence and love into an accessible sourcebook for students It tackles some of feminism s most pressing issues and helps readers to identify and then overcome the real damage caused by oppression     Coping with Self-Mutilation Jordan Lee, Alicia Clarke, 1999-03     Body and Self Dale Mendell, 1994-12 Covers biological sociological and psychological factors of female development The contributors argue against the traditional psychoanalytic depiction of the emergence of a female identity as a secondary defensive organisation The book sees female identity body relationships as interrelated     Triumph Over Trauma Jendayi A. Stafford, 2021-03-16 This workbook was designed for individuals who have experienced trauma This workbook can be used independently or in conjunction with individual therapy and or group therapy This workbook allows the individual to identify and process their experienced trauma through a combination of narrative therapy imagery and various coping techniques such as mindfulness This workbook also provides a number of self guided activities allowing participants to heal on their own time The purpose of this workbook is to provide a user friendly guide to assessments and activities to help individuals manage their trauma related issues and experience a greater sense of well being In addition this workbook is designed to help provide facilitators and participants with tools and information needed to overcome the negative thoughts and feelings attached to the experiences related to the trauma     Auto/biography Studies ,2001     The Origin and Nature of the Emotions George Washington Crile, 1915

    Empower Your Self Alan Raymond Fine, 1999     Psychosis and The Traumatized Self John Rhodes, 2022-03-28
Psychosis and the Traumatized Self explores what it is like to experience psychosis for individuals with histories of childhood physical and sexual abuse The book additionally explores how meaning expressed in psychosis might originate from the effects of abuse but also long term life difficulties motivations memories social history and struggles to narrate and understand One chapter focuses on refugees who suffered trauma as adults and later became psychotic Another chapter examines how trauma leads to the destruction of certainty and trust thereby opening a pathway to persecutory ideas Drawing on a developmental model of trauma it is proposed that dissociated parts of the self that developed during childhood contribute to psychosis in adults when undergoing difficulties and stress Presented with case illustrations the book will be useful for those who work in the area of psychosis and abuse to understand the experiences of individuals and how we might develop appropriate therapy and care     Omnipotent Fantasies and the Vulnerable Self Carolyn S. Ellman, Joseph Reppen, 1997-06 Fantasies of omnipotence grow out of feelings of helplessness We are all born helpless completely dependent on others for nurturance and survival and we all must face the ultimate annihilation of the self at the end of life While fantasies of omnipotence help us to cope with these painful acts they may also interfere with our ability to engage reality and deal with life This important new book addresses all aspects of omnipotence from the merger fantasies of the baby who feels like an extension of the powerful parent to the rigid defence omnipotent fantasies of the frightened borderline patient to the soothing spiritual and religious feelings that help many accept loss and mortality Contributions by noted authors like Otto Kernberg Jack and Kerry Kelly Novick Henry Krystal Paul Ornstein and Steven Ellman should make this a valuable resource to all clinicians and other students of human behaviour     The Psychology of Self-consciousness Julia

Turner, 1923
