Sterilization Of Tissues Using Ionizing Radiations:

Sterilisation of tissues using ionizing radiations John F. Kennedy, Glyn O. Phillips, Peter A. Williams, 2005-05-17 Existing sterilization processes have proven to be inadequate in many instances. Microbial and viral contamination of tissues leads to major safety concerns involving surgical allografts. Sterilization of Biological Tissues with Ionizing Radiation provides information on the issues presented at an international meeting in Wales supported by the International Atomic Energy Agency. It includes a Code of Practice for the Radiation Sterilization of Tissues with an evaluation of the code and its outcome. This book presents all of the methodologies used in the field and outlines new methods of protecting tissues that allow the use of high doses of ionizing radiations to inactivate invading organisms.

Sterilisation of Tissues Using Ionising Radiations J F Kennedy, Glyn O. Phillips, Peter A. Williams, 2005-05-06 Existing methods and processing for sterilising tissues are proving inadequate in many instances. Infections have been transmitted from the graft to the recipient and in the USA the Centre for Disease Control and other regulatory bodies have drawn attention to the need for a reliable end sterilisation method which does not damage the functionality of the final tissue. Safety of surgical allografts is therefore a major concern due to microbial and viral contamination of tissues which is now a problem even in the most sophisticated centres. The Presidents of the main Professional Association of Tissue Banks American, European and Latin American met in Vienna to review the situation and concluded that the time was opportune to organise an international high level expert meeting which would identify the best method of using radiation technology to assist in the production of safe tissue allografts. Sterilisation of biological tissues with ionising radiations provides the information on this subject presented at an international meeting in Wales supported by the International Atomic Energy Agency. New methods of protecting the tissues were presented which at the same time allow the use of sufficiently high doses of ionising radiations to inactivate invading organisms. A Code of Practice for the Radiation Sterilisation of Tissues was evaluated and the outcome and the full Code is included in this volume as well as explorations of all of the methodologies used in the field. Sterilisation of biological tissues with ionising radiations is the only volume of its kind and as such is an invaluable source of information for those working in tissue banks, transplant surgeons and the safety regulators. High quality papers highlighting the most recent developments in this important area. Includes the full code of practice for the radiation sterilisation of tissues. Edited by a highly respected team of experts.

Standardisation in Cell and Tissue Engineering V Salih, 2013-07-31 The increased use of biodegradable synthetic or natural scaffolds combined with cells and/or biological molecules in order to create functional replacement tissue in a damaged tissue site has led to the need for the development of best practice methods in the area of tissue engineering to help ensure the creation of safe high quality products. Standardisation in cell and tissue engineering introduces concepts and current practice in the field of cell and tissue engineering to a wide audience and aims to provide awareness of the importance of standardisation in this area while suggesting directions for further investigation. Part one provides an overview of methods for cell and tissue engineering and includes chapters on the fundamentals of cell and matrix biology for tissue engineering 3D collagen biomatrix development and control and vascularisation of tissue engineered constructs Part two begins with a chapter exploring the methods and protocols of standardisation in cell and tissue engineering before moving on to highlight issues of quality control in cell and tissue engineering standardised chemical analysis and testing of biomaterials and principles of good laboratory practice GLP for in vitro cell culture applications Standardisation in cell and tissue engineering is a standard reference for leading research groups government agencies regulatory bodies and researchers and technicians at all levels across the whole range of disciplines using cell culture within the pharmaceutical biotechnology and biomedical industries Introduces concepts and current practice in the field of cell and tissue engineering Highlights the importance of standardisation in cell and tissue engineering and suggests directions for further investigation Explores methods and protocols of standardisation in cell and tissue engineering and issues of quality control in cell and tissue engineering
