

Introduction to Economics Study Guide

- Define economics. Explain how economics applies to the real world.
 - Economics is a social science that studies how individuals, governments, firms, and nations make choices on allocating scarce resources to satisfy their unlimited wants. Economics tells us how to make the best use of our scarce resources and is usually divided into two categories: Microeconomics and macroeconomics
- Define opportunity cost. Identify the opportunity cost of various decisions made by individuals and societies.
 - Opportunity cost is the cost of an alternative that must be forgone to pursue a certain action. Put another way, the benefits you could have received by taking an alternative action.

 - Positive economics is objective and fact-based, while normative economics is subjective and value-based. Positive economic statements do not have to be correct, but they must be able to be tested and proved or disproved. Normative economic statements are opinion based, so they cannot be proved or disproved.
- Contrast microeconomics and macroeconomics. Give examples of questions each tries to answer.
 - Microeconomics deals with an economist on the small scale (ex. individuals)
 - Macroeconomics focuses on the big picture of economics (ex. countries)
