

Understanding Language

(Ages Two to Three)

Understanding language, also known as 'receptive language', is the ability to understand spoken language and respond to it appropriately. This involves the understanding of words, sentences and questions.

Between the ages of two and three years old, toddlers may:

follow and remember a simple short story with pictures understand and answer simple 'who', 'what' and 'where' questions develop simple language understand simple instructions and follow basic instructions such as 'pick up the toy' or 'sit down' play a simple game like hide-and-seek begin to use a simple form like a picture to represent a sentence, such as 'milk' and 'milk is in the fridge'

These are the expected outcomes for children aged two to three years old. Children may develop these skills at different rates and some children may not develop all of these skills by the age of three.
